Hi!
We've had a real good time having you in English & we I'll always remember this year & how much fun we had. I've been sad since you went away & a year ago I see lots of a summer &
see you & love you

Diane -
It's really been fun having you in history & English - too bad I can't say the same about the subjects. Anyway, I'm glad I met you & hope we get in some more classes next year. Be good & all that & I'll see you next fall.

Diana,

Last year we were
soph. in that art modeling class. This year we're jr. in this history class. Next year we'll be seniors and who knows what class we'll be in (may be history)! It's really been fun knowing you Diane. Good luck in all you do
don, you deserve it!

Diana,
This year has gone
so fast we can hardly believe it. Although my favorite class wasn't American history, I was able to get in another class together next year.
I hope to see you and your friends.
Good luck.

Foreword

don (dŏn) n. 1. Sir; Mr.;—a title in Spain. 2. A Spanish nobleman.

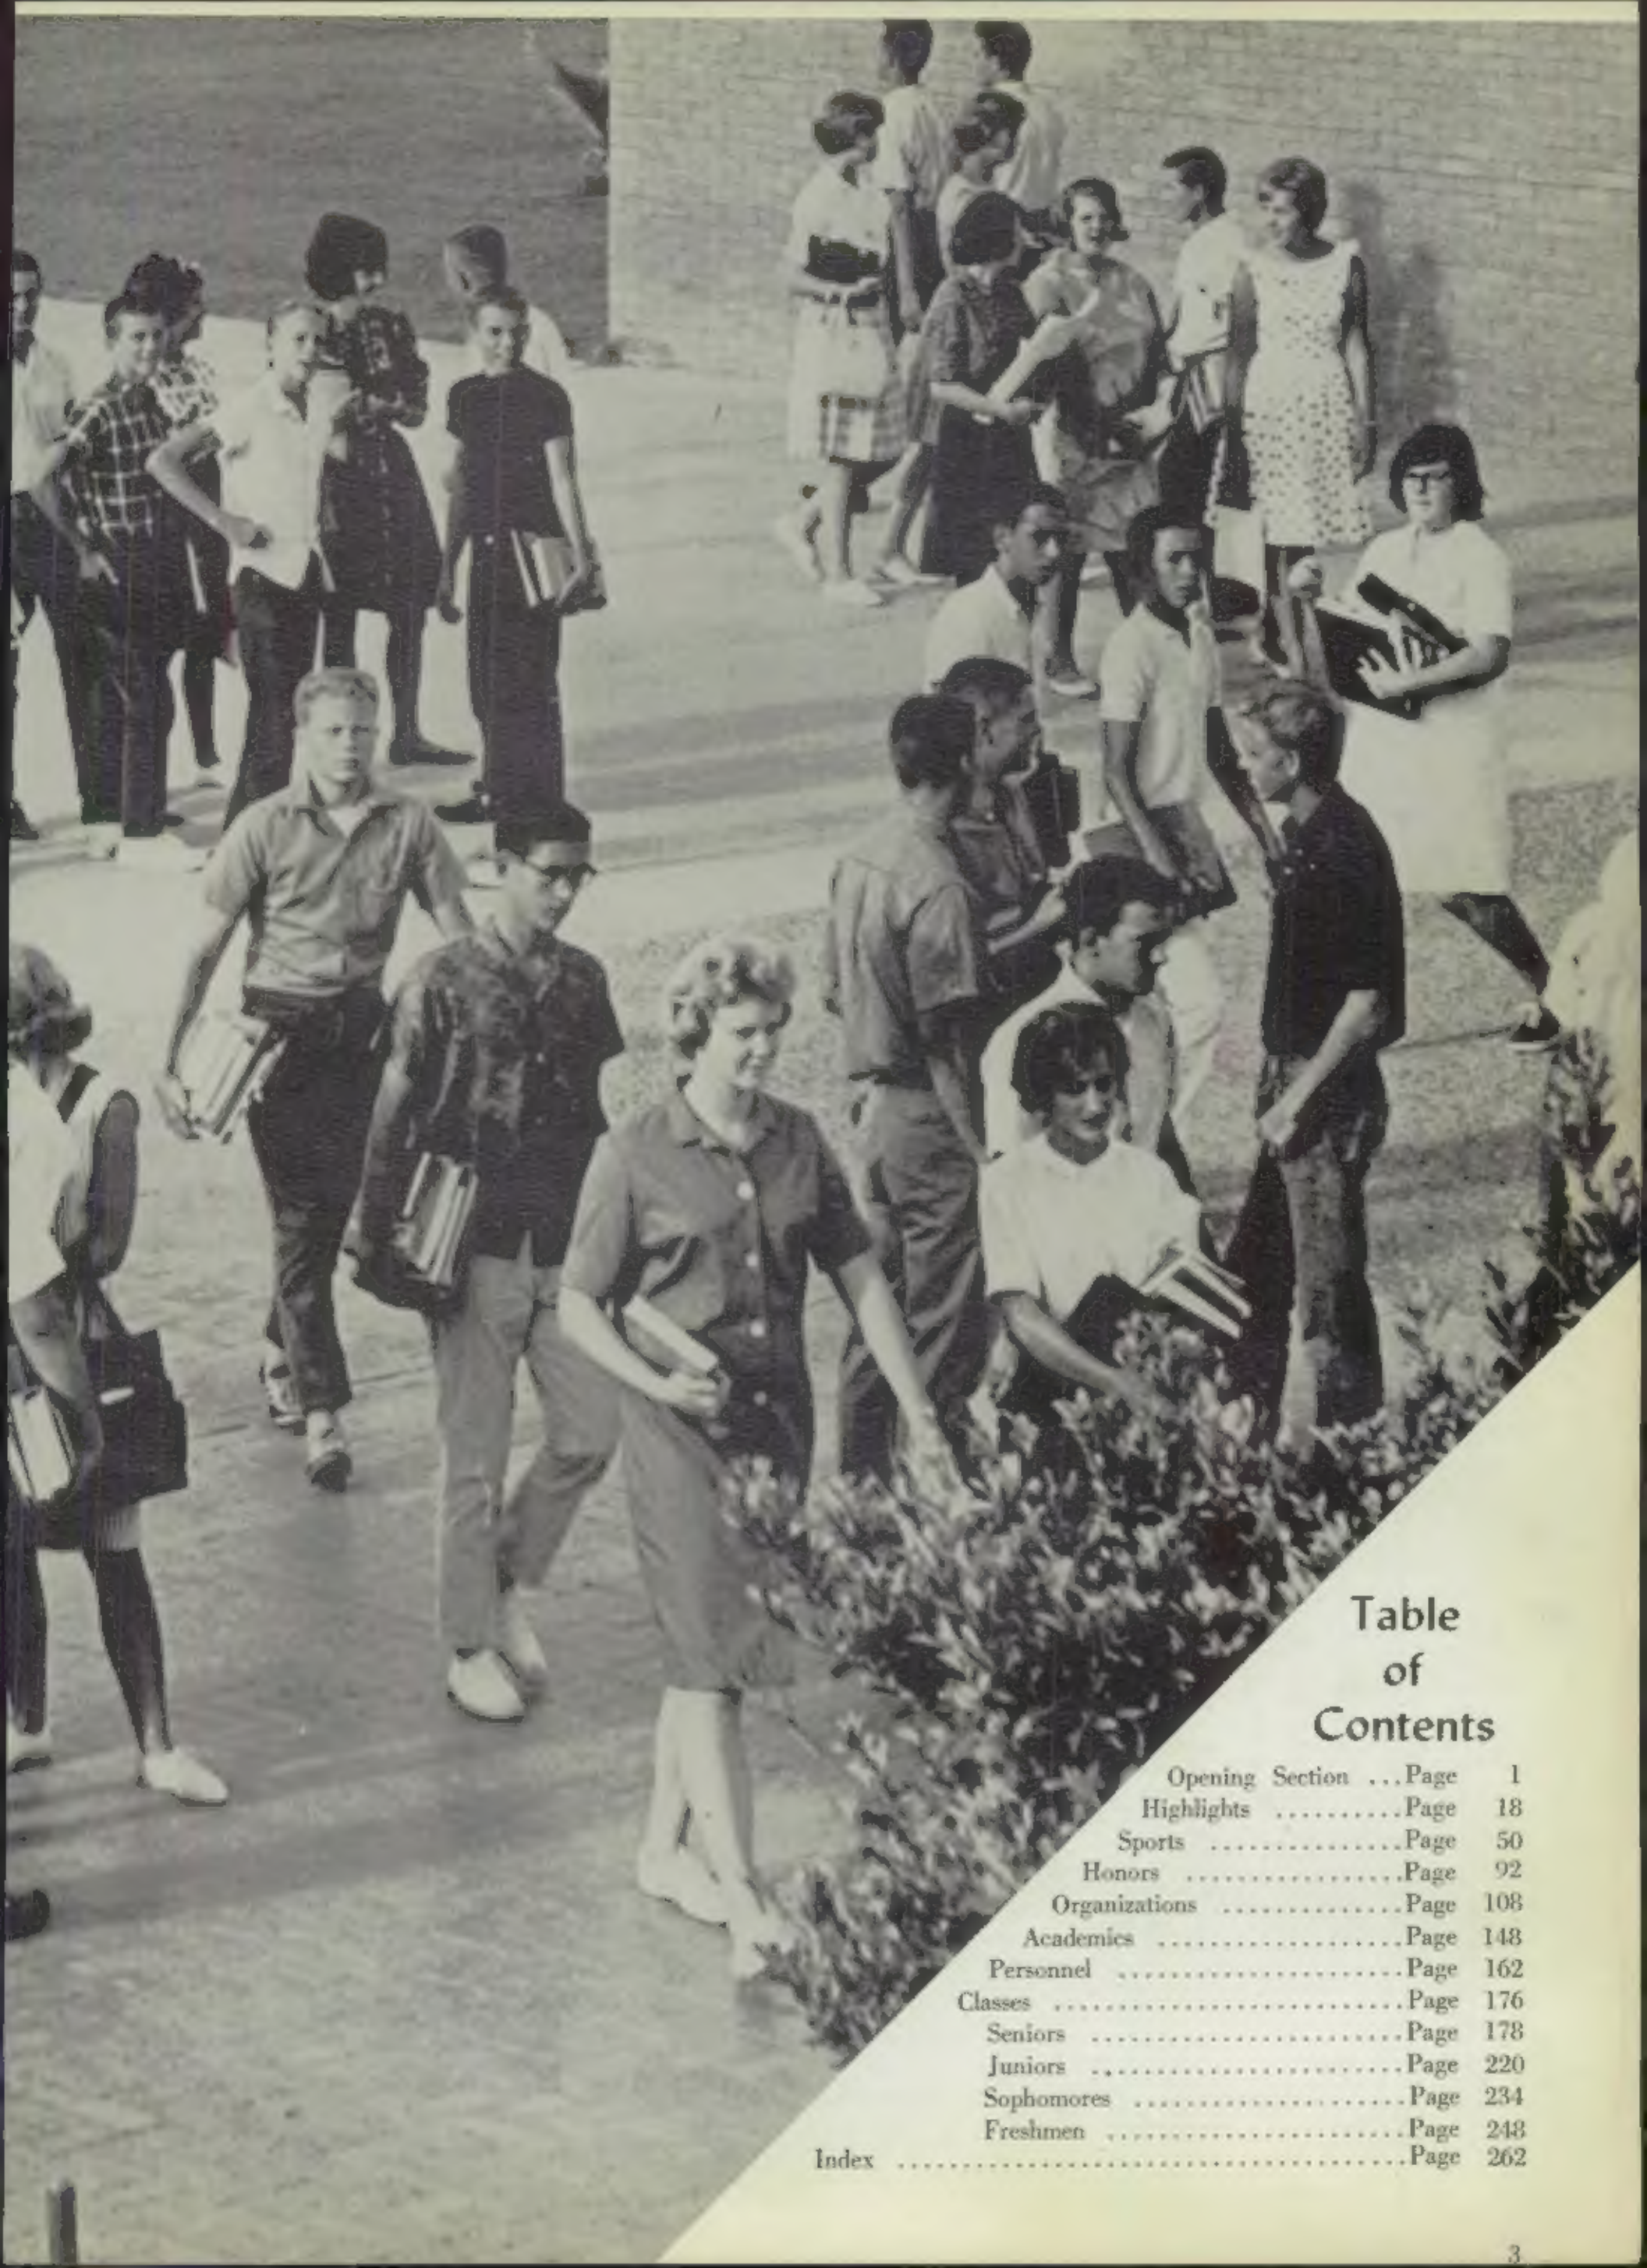

This definition of "don" is no longer complete. With the birth of Coronado High School, new meaning was brought to this word.

What is a Don? A Don is a little part of every student attending Coronado. He is the living, working part of the campus. He is the new ideas and ambitions of the year. In his face can be seen the emotions of Coronado, for he is the reflection of its true personality.

A Don, just as every personality, has many sides. We invite you to meet the Coronado Don . . .

Learning to operate modern business machines is instrumental in securing office positions today. Seniors Terrie Jensen and Janice Proudfit use team work and the mimeograph machine to run off a stencil in their office training machines class.

Progress

Stepping forward into the challenging field of today's modern educational rewards, a Don can look back with pride and say he was part of Coronado's vast program. The four years of high school education prepares a Don for the many awakening experiences he will face in the future.

Many Dons will now venture on to future education while others will find and mark their place in the world. The Don of today is the citizen of tomorrow; every phase of Coronado life is used in forming the Don into a working, useful citizen.

Double checking titration apparatus for accurate results, Dave Colkett, senior lab assistant, prepares to determine the acidity of a solution to be used by the next class. Such experiments give students insight to the composition of common compounds.

To the tune of a Spanish march, Coronado students fill the stadium for the first time this year. The September 18 pep assembly, the first gathering for the whole student body, was a new experience for many Dons.

The Absorbing of New Experiences

So, having engaged in a motley of experiences, the Don emerges with new views and expectations for the future.

hope you always stay, so sweet and never

Loaded with books, Linda Gottschalk and Christine Kepler, sophomores, discuss their impressions of the first day of school. The locker areas, though crowded, are the most frequented areas on campus for between-class chatter.

A Don Is A Friend

The Atmosphere

For every Don, the Community Room is a place to enjoy new activity. The room is designed to be a place where everyone can enjoy the atmosphere.

Of His Campus

The Coronado campus is the home of the Don. He was born here four years ago and each year he has matured a little more. The familiar buildings for accentuated study and the mall area for between-class gossip are known and crossed by every Don every day. Coronado's buildings are modern, open to view, and distinct—each showing the spirit of the Coronado Don.

A Don Is . . .

Creativity in Motion

"Creativity in clay" is experienced by Karen Pasch in her arts and crafts class. Clay sculpturing is one of the more difficult and advanced projects studied during the year.

The Coronado Don is characterized by the fitting together of the right elements to create something new and original.

By tying patience and skill, the Don tries to surpass his own qualities.

Whether creating with the mind or the hands, the outcome is as varied as the Don's personality.

Barbara Morris, senior Don, finds the construction of a suit complicated but the results well worth the time. Homemaking classes discovered sewing an inexpensive means of having well-tailored clothes.

Working with guitar and voice, Doug Memory and Pat Kennedy, seniors, add the finishing touches to their latest arrangement "Lonely Nights." The song was arranged for the musical comedy "What Am I Doing Here?"

A Don Is . . .

The Height of Enthusiasm

eager for a better understanding of foreign countries and people, many Dons give a shout of joy. Celebrating in front of the Don, the cheer is a triumph over the country's people through these celebrations. It is a victory.

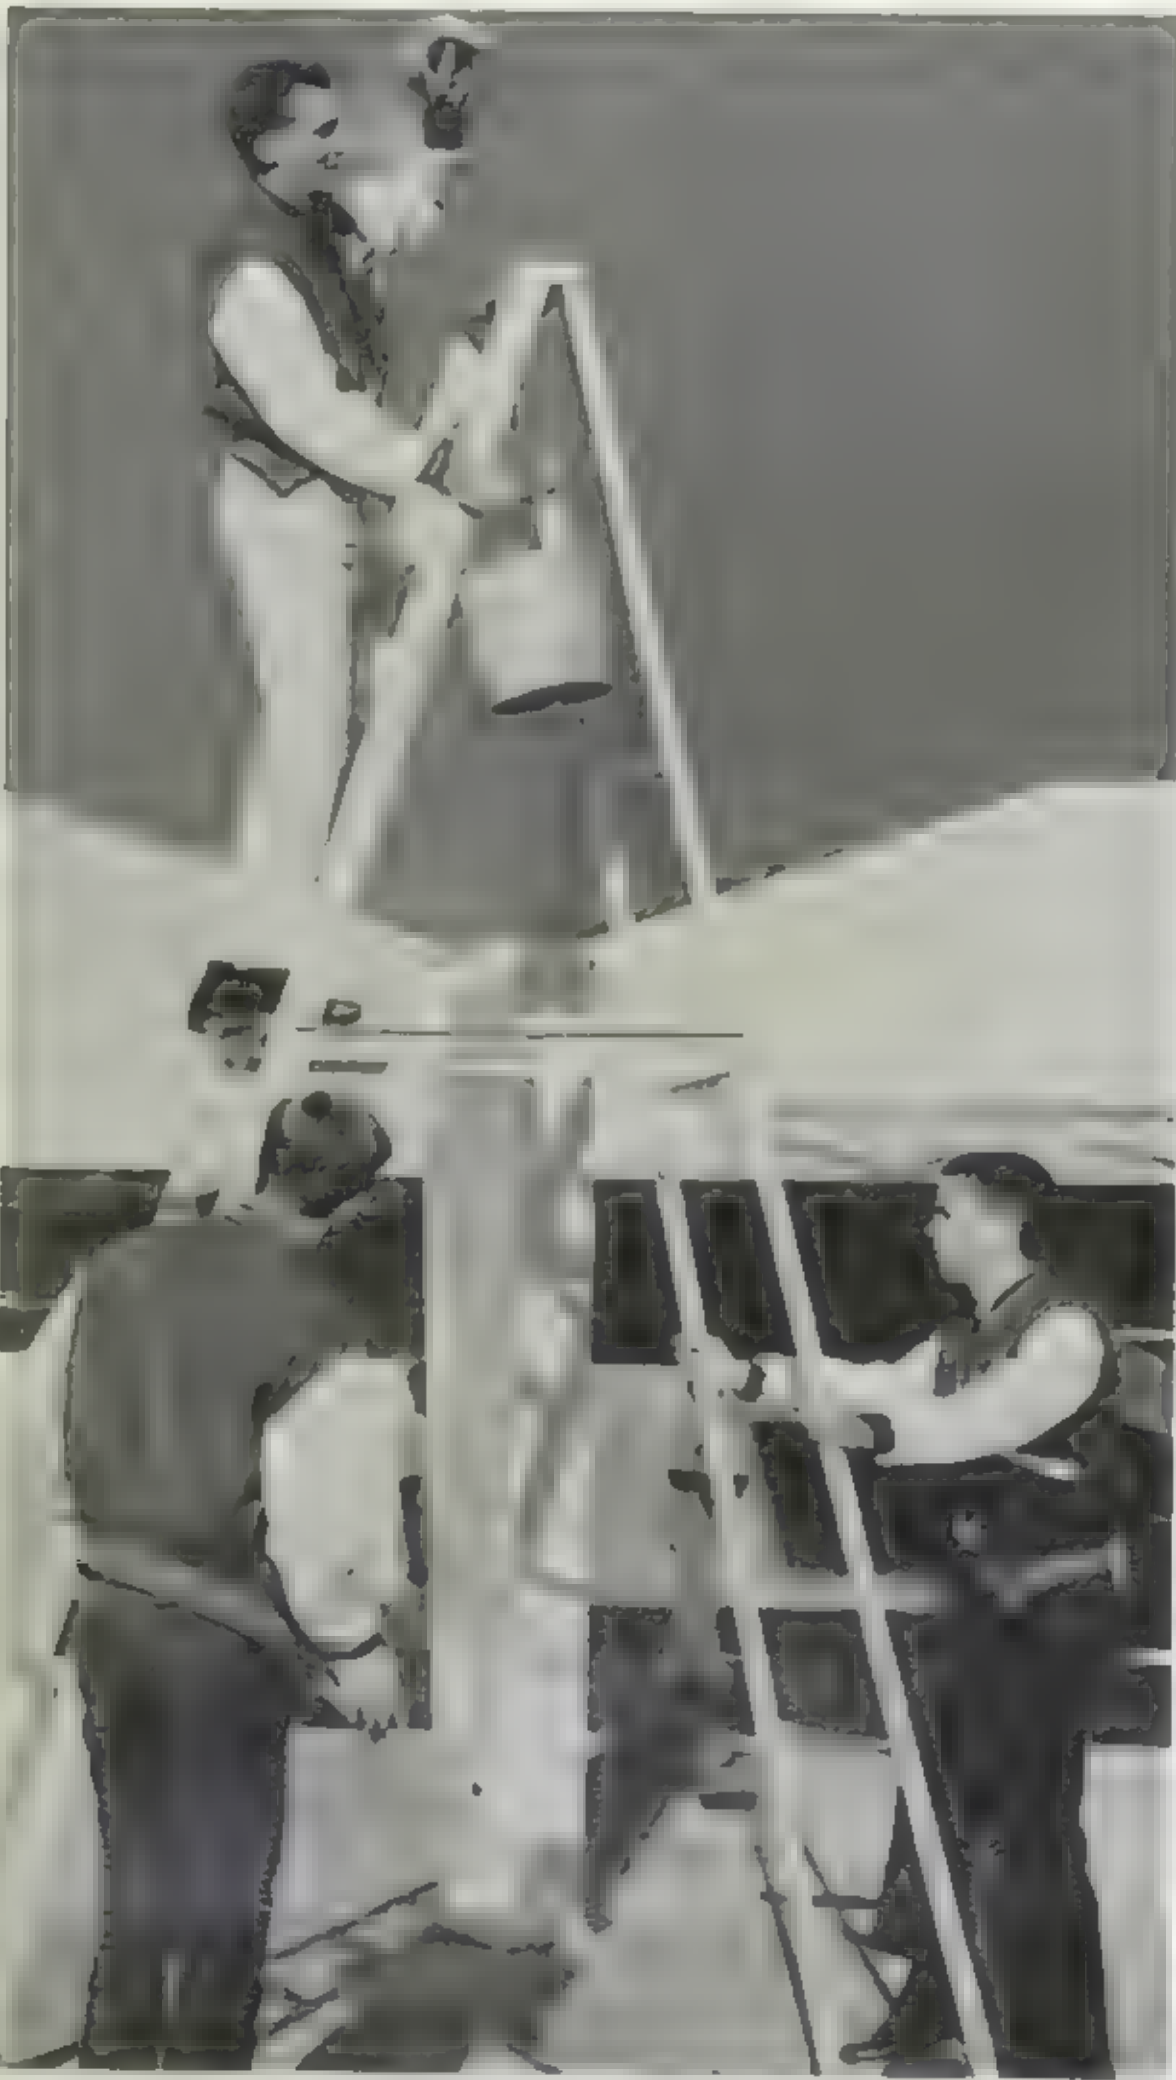

Demonstrated through the roaring cheer of a victorious crowd or the inward sense of anticipation and thought, enthusiasm is found in many forms. Its expression is depicted in every Don. A busy schedule of both entertainment and study kept spirits thriving, so much so that anticipation, spirit, and enthusiasm are words synonymous with the Colorado Don.

Mary Martin, senior, forms the familiar "C-jump" — a victory sign. The variety of readers promote and head the Don's cheer throughout the year.

Jay McCauley and Bob Swan, seniors, steady the ladder for Lee Coopridge, also a senior, as he "spic and spans" one of the white shade umbrellas. Characterized by their blue and white jackets, Los Hermanos members sponsored several campaigns to clean up the campus.

To the Coronado Don, participation in school activities is not always solely for entertainment. Many extra hours are devoted for the betterment of his school and community. Ready, willing and eager, a Don is prepared to donate his time and present his services for the promotion of the finer aspects in life. In every instance the experiences gained will be used in his future, whether socially or professionally.

Diane;

I don't know what you expect me to say and I don't know exactly what I want to say. I could fill the whole book but right now it's hard to fill this page. There are a lot of things I could say but you just don't put those (paper) things in an annual. It would be up to both of us to decide whether it's been fun or not. Sometimes it's been great and the other times... You're a really good person but sometimes you're too hard on yourself. I don't know if I've ever seen you a gain but that's up to you. Thanks a lot...

Student Body vice president George, left, helps freshmen Irene and Claudia find their next class. Recent council members assisted freshmen orientation by finding the right building and class.

Keeping in step to entrance for a class is perfect, and then, when giving their assignments, the Don's that perform for their own. Don's members, so many, are a great help for their school for year around.

The Master of Competition

Standing in front of the background of the State Student Council members Richard Seyffer, Secretary; Mary Hays, Governor of the State; David Johnson, Governor of the State; Andi Arthur, Student Body secretary; Bob Swan, Student Body president; George Jett, Student Body vice-president; and Jay McCauley, Student Body treasurer discuss new ideas for improving student council. The honor of having the State Student Council Convention held at Coronado was secured through the efforts of this and past councils.

Striving for the maximum degree of quality, Dons try to conquer uncounted boundaries and goals. The contest of these accomplishments is found only through long and skillful hours working for the highest rewards. Whether in education, sports or other extracurricular activities, aiming high and to the point is the unbounded view of anyone wishing to win the race of competition. But winning or losing, a Don attempts the unparalleled

Howdy Week Heads Year

Guy Williams gets things underway at Coronado's first dance of the year. Student Council sponsors the Howdy Hop as a welcome to new students and teachers.

The Coronado Dons began the school year with "Howdy Week," a welcome to all new Dons.

All freshmen, new students, and teachers were required to wear Howdy Cards. Failure to do so resulted in the appearance before the Court of Justice, a Coronado court for wrong-doing, presided over by the honorable Richard R. Seyffer.

Student Council sponsored the Howdy Hop. Guy Williams, KRUX disc jockey, served as Master of Ceremonies by welcoming the Dons and conducting Coronado's first dance of the year.

Ties and handos swing during the Howdy Hop as Richard Seyffer and Berky Bones "show how it's done."

Taking a break from the dance, Dons enjoy themselves around the refreshment stand. Alpha Omega members Connie Outcalt and Jane Snyder helped the Student Council concessions by serving the awaiting Dons.

Deborah Heavlin and Dorothy Luke are two of the 282 freshmen who voted for their class officers. George Jett and Richard Seyfler over-see the voting.

casting instructions on mounting ballots to Jim Priest and James Shively. Richard Seyfler. The ballots were counted and election results announced on September 17.

Freshmen Arouse Spirit With Elections

After candidates' petitions were in, the freshmen campaign began. Posters were papered the buildings. Speeches echoed through the auditorium, and the votes were cast. Six freshmen were selected by their class as governing officers. The newly elected were: Jon Worden, president; Chris Clark, veep; Mary Ellen Vogel, secretary; Ted Cooperer, treasurer; Maggie Gaylord, girl rep; Stephen Vance, boy rep.

Campaigning is fun, and a good speaker is one of the many requirements of a true leader. Stephen Vance addresses the freshmen in his campaign for boy representative.

"Madwoman,"

Declaring "I am the Mikado", the emperor of Japan (Janet Ayers) and Katsura (Janet Ayers, elderly daughter-in-law) are flanked by two frightened Japanese (George Jet, Sue Fox).

Gasping "It's alive, it's real," the Little Maids (Cherrie Anderson, Donna Webb, and Karen Pucci) examine Pooh-Bah, Lord High Everything, (Terry Privateer).

Sighing "Oh this is what I'll never, never do" sailor Nanki Poo (R. Lynn Chapman) courts young Yum Yum (Donna Webb). The romance ends happily and the two were later joined in marriage.

"Mikado" Major Hits in Theater

The numerous students who participate in Fine Arts were active again this year, transforming the written word into a creative performance.

The wheels were set into motion with the choosing of whimsical, exciting, and challenging scripts, casting, set-building, and a dash of backstage "organized confusion."

The result of this was the November production of "The Madwoman of Chaillot", a romantic fantasy by Jean Giraudoux, revolving around a "let's get rid of all the evil in the world" theme. As director, James Newcomer enhanced this theme by adding a modern dance "Dream Sequence." Choreographer was Mrs. Deborah Corder.

In December, The Advanced Choral Ensemble and CHS orchestra, under the direction of Eugene Hanson and Robert Frazier, presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado", an operatic spoof on early 20th century Japan. The backstage was under the direction of Mr. Newcomer.

Unaware of the others, Mlle. Gabrielle (Andi Shields) converses with her imaginary friends, while the Countess (Colleen Cranmer) berates Mme. Constantine (Jill Ayres) for not being friendly.

The Prospector (Ken Howell) is towed off stage by the Sergeant (Bob Swierski), while Countess Aurelia (Colleen Cranmer) nods approvingly. Sets for Act I were designed by Jerry Redding.

The Sewer-Man (Lorin Shelley) reveals the truth about life in Parisian sewers to the Madwoman of Chaillot (Colleen Cranmer). Doug Momary designed sets for the basement scene.

Window, Fire,

"The Seven Lost Cities of Cibola", the Homecoming theme for '64, was highlighted by pre-week's activities.

To represent the theme, classes and clubs presented the annual cafeteria window display. Band and orchestra lettermen were judged with the winning window, while honorable mention went to the sophomore class.

The cheerleaders spearheaded and judged the car decorating contest, declaring as co-winners senior Janet Nelson and junior Tim Dugan. A close second place was taken by junior Vicki Letterly.

During the week's activities, Pep Club distributed spirit ribbons, and the junior class sold pin-on pennants.

All classes participated in the annual wood-gathering contest for Homecoming. President of the winning class, senior Lorin Shelley, lit the pre-game bonfire, with help from fellow senior Dave Rigg and Assistant Principal William Kelley.

Homecoming officers, Jan Warden and Stephen Vance, finish construction of the display to guide us carry out the theme "Seven Cities of Cibola." All members of Student Council took part in preparations for Homecoming.

Setting up a workable, yet attractive, fountain arrangement, junior Richard Larson and senior Mike Hendel add still another touch of beauty by draping the fountains with moss.

Car Contests Herald Homecoming

Jared Nelson, senior, is in the car with Ben Higgins, House of Sadrass, in the Junior-Senior contest. The board depicts paper paths also depicted in Sam Jones' interpretation of a connect.

Mapping the way to the "Seven Cities of Gold" was the Band and Orchestra Letterman window, decorated at Homecoming. Lettermen were given top honors for their original mural.

Silhouetted against the Homecoming bonture, cheerleader Mary Martin sets the pace for a pregame pep rally. In the hours preceding the lighting, Dons frantically gathered wood in an inter-class competition, won by the senior.

Linda, Keith

Weeks of wondering were climaxed as Homecoming crowns went to Linda Seeley and Keith Hoffmann. The royal robes were presented by last year's queen Karis Hoffmann and king attendant Dean Burleson substituting for '63 king Roger Reinke.

Half-time ceremonies began with the marching of the band, Donettes, and majorettes. The Donettes twirled their hats with canes in their special Homecoming dance shown for the first time this season. Laura Sahlin lit up the field and stands with the light of her dual fire batons. Later, following the Dons' win over Casa Grande, 25-0, on October 30, King Keith and Queen Linda were honored by a semi-formal dance in the newly decorated cafeteria.

Drums roll and trumpets blare as Senior Laura Sahlin illuminates the field and stands with the glow from dual fire batons. Majorettes, Donettes, and band all took part in the pre-writing ceremonies at half time.

Keith Hoffmann, king, and Linda Seeley, queen, lead the procession of Homecoming royalty off the field. Royal carriages awaited the trio of couples for the ceremonial parade around the track.

Senior Jan Priest, as Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, and half-time crown bearers, Amy and Kelly Corder, watch from the sidelines, intrigued by field action during the Coronado Casa Grande Homecoming game.

Take Royal Robes

Rhyn Chapman, fullback, and Steve Booth, varsity linebacker, are two of the Homecoming attendants.

Weeks of suspense ended when Linda Swann, Donette, and Keith Hartman participated with Howard Thompson, Owen and King. Candidates chosen by the senior class were voted on by the entire student body.

Carolyn Carst, a varsity linebacker and former Donette, and Bob Swan, student body president, rode in the royal motorcade around the track.

Dons

Though duties as AASC treasurer kept him busy, senior Jay McCauley works with his committee on the seating arrangement for the auditorium. Convention members met in the auditorium for the evening sessions.

Voted last year as the site for this year's Arizona Student Council Convention, Coronado bustled with activity in anticipation of the annual December convention. Because it was chosen the previous January, the theme, "A Time For Action" enabled committees to begin work early in September.

Over 85 Dons helped on the twenty committees, arranging speakers, publicity, information for delegates, transportation, correspondence, and the banquet. Student Council members headed the committees.

Senior Paul Blanc assembles the type necessary for printing tickets used in the 1964 AASC Convention. Paul has employed his printing press in numerous other campus projects.

Mike Smith, junior, works on painting roughly 100 school signs for the over 700 delegates expected to attend the convention. Mike's committee was responsible for all convention art work.

Hustle as Convention Nears

last minute envelope stuffing is hastened as delegates and other Dons work on a "scrubby one." Into these envelopes were all the necessary resolutions, pamphlets, tickets, and programs needed for the convention.

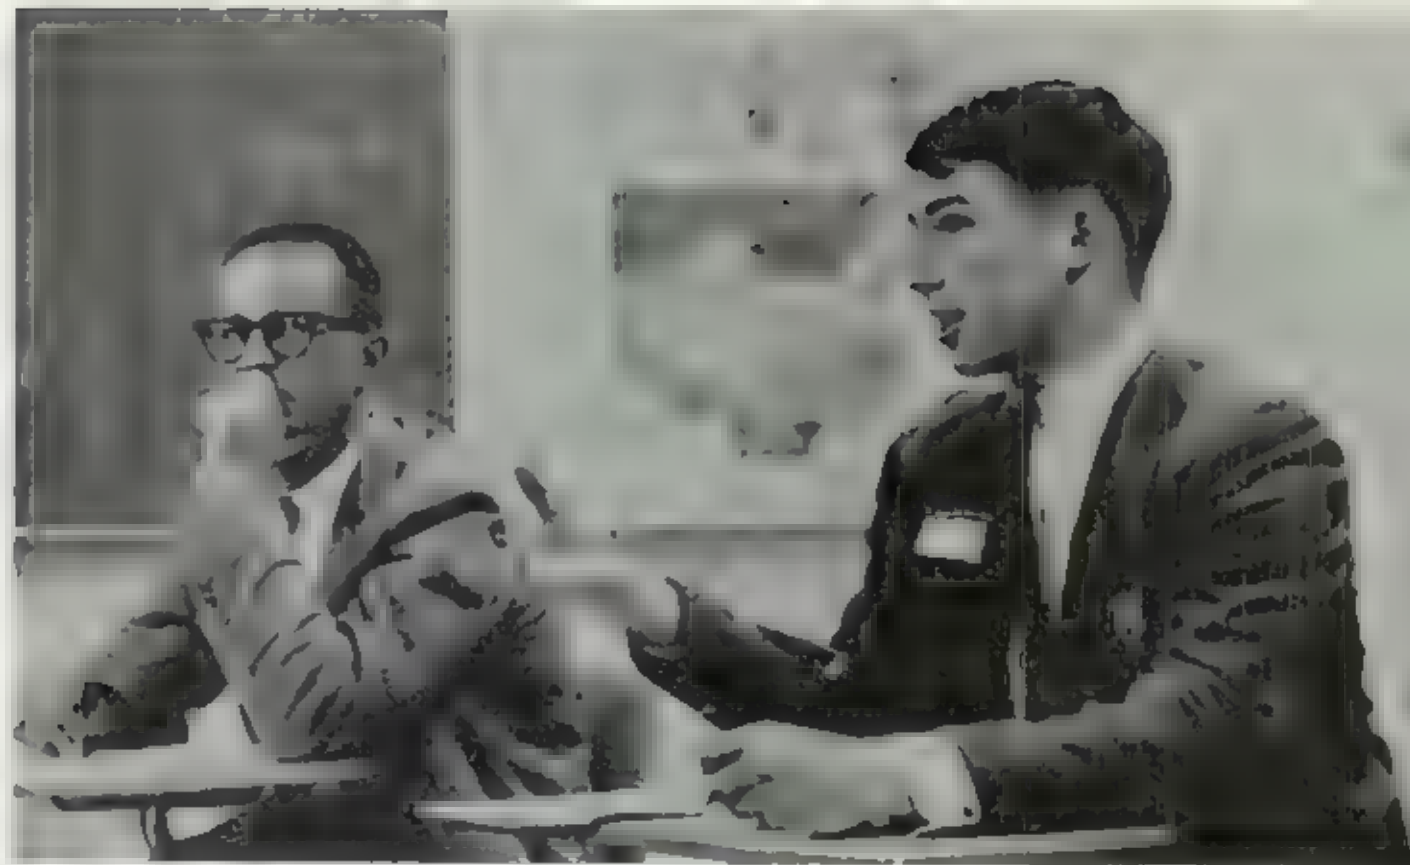

Now silent and dark and empty as General wants the rush of convention delegates. Plans for preparation beginning in January 1964 with the end and the results would soon be noted.

The 1964 AASC Convention comes to life as delegates representing some 100 Arizona schools pour into General's auditorium. Though the first use of such signs was confusing at first, the use of such signs proved invaluable.

Afternoon discussion groups, led by students from the different schools, explored such diverse and timely topics as the United Nations, the electoral college, school policies, and student council problems.

State Convention Highlights Council

"A Time For Action" was the theme for the 31st annual Arizona Association of Student Councils' convention, held December 4 and 5 at Coronado High School.

This year, Coronado's student body officers automatically became officers for the convention. They were Bob Swan, president; George Jett, vice-president; Andi Arthur, secretary; and Jay McCauley, treasurer.

The agenda for the two-day convention was high-lighted Friday by keynote speaker Jesse Owens, four gold medal winner in the '36 Olympics.

Discussion groups and special problem clinics preceded a formal banquet at the Phoenix Convention Center. Later, convention representatives attended "The Mikado" in the CHS auditorium.

At the Saturday morning session, delegates reported on conventions attended last summer, then cast their votes for Maryvale High School as the 1965 AASC convention site.

Senior Bob Swan, AASC President, introduces keynoter Jesse Owens, famed Olympic star. Mr. Owens flew in from Chicago particularly to speak at the AASC convention.

The Phoenix Convention Center Star Theater became the scene of the Friday night banquet. In the foreground, convention recorders take special note of speeches for permanent record of the Convention.

Year

Roll call of the schools, reports, and the election of AASC officers. Jay M. Carley, treasurer; Andy Arthur, secretary; and George Jett, vice-president, record the number of delegates, sponsors, and AFS students representing each of the 100 Arizona schools.

A lively break in the day's proceedings is well earned by delegates at the sock hop, sandwiched in between the morning session and the afternoon discussion groups.

Teachers,

From beginning to end, there's chuk and spills throughout Carleton's first donkey basketball game. December 2. Opposing the faculty on the court, the juniors sponsored the game to raise funds for the Junior-Senior Prom.

To furnish pep and spirit, each team was supplied with a line of boy cheerleaders. The game was close, but in the final seconds, the faculty outplayed the juniors, edging them with a victory of 26-22. Representing the faculty, George Vernich accepted the winning trophy, a miniature donkey.

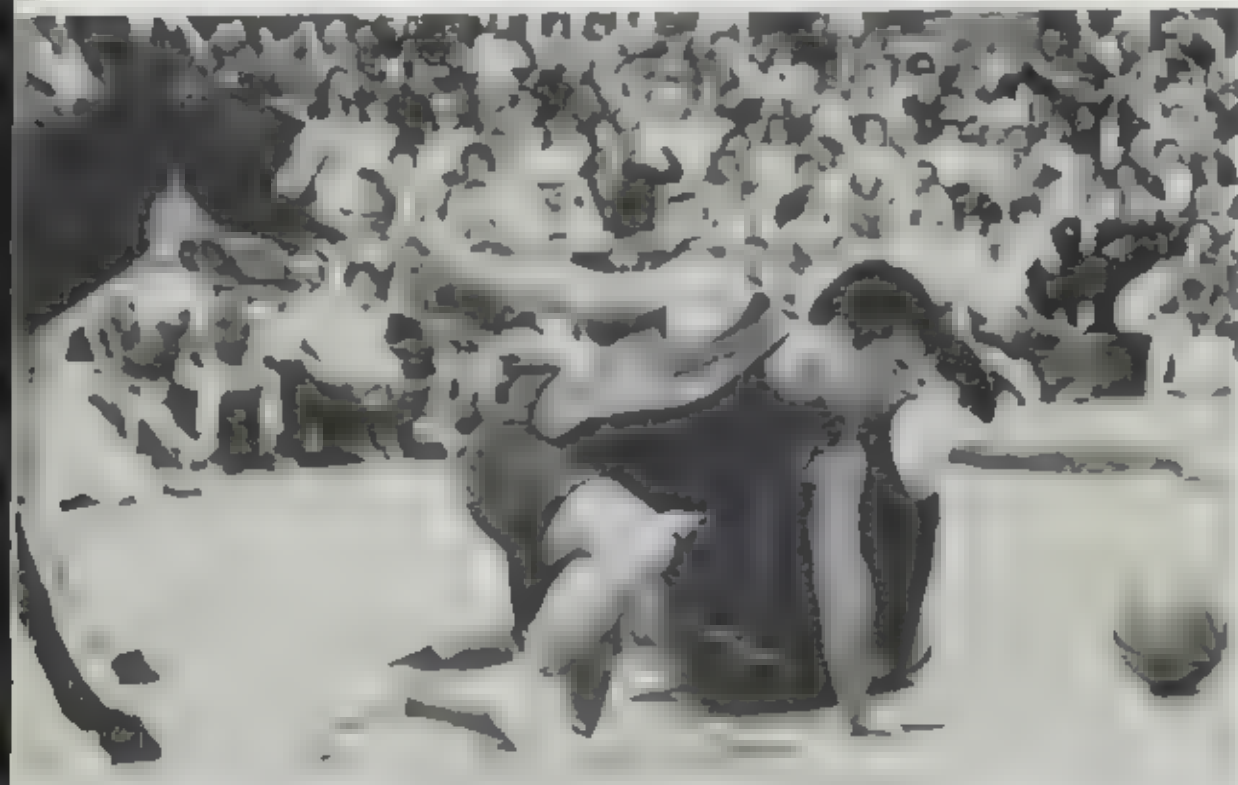

As Clarence Spang reaches vainly for the ball, junior Jack Bortz successfully manages to keep it out of his range. Although this was a trick to be faculty, it proved to be not in their victory over the juniors.

As the junior Dennis Sullivan shoots a basket, his teammate Clarence Spang waits for a shot. One of the faculty member Dennis then ventures to block the shot.

Donkeys Execute Junior Dons

Donkey is in stationary Junior Mike Redwell and Guy Scott are to give the command. These are Guy make the high station between donkey and bird.

Junior Mike Redwell makes an unexpected lunge from his donkey, as the crowd of spectators looks on. The donkey is in the back up. Though competition was very even the donkey played a good game of catchup.

The miniature donkey trophy was won by the faculty after the defeat of the senior. 2022 is accepted by George Vennish. Though he is chairman of the junior class. Mr. Vennish represented the faculty as recipient of the award.

Snowman, one of the many trimmings around campus, greets the library entrance. The designing and decorating of this project was done by the Literary club.

Christmas Creates Colorful Quality

As the Christmas season comes to a close around Coronado, Sophomore Harry King drags away one of the trees used to decorate the cafeteria for the Christmas Prom.

Trail staffers Bon Taylor, Sally Richards, and Larry Cassidy put the finishing touches on the Christmas tree, adding yuletide cheer to the journalism room.

On Campus; Climax Comes at Prom

"Walking in a winter wonderland!" The words may seem inappropriate for a town with little rain and no snow, but when the season comes for Christmas merriment Coronado abounds with spirit. Trees, lights, and ornaments decorated many of the campus rooms, including the cafeteria.

Eugene Hanson, Robert Frazier, and Armand Iacono led the orchestra and chorus in a pre-Christmas selection of songs and hymns.

Criada and Los Hermanos put holiday activities in motion by caroling at many of the faculty members' homes. Yuletide spirit was displayed as Future Homemakers of America visited a rest home and carried out a gift exchange game entitled "secret angels".

The campus Christmas season came to a climax at the Christmas formal, sponsored by the band and orchestra lettermen and held in the cafeteria on December 19.

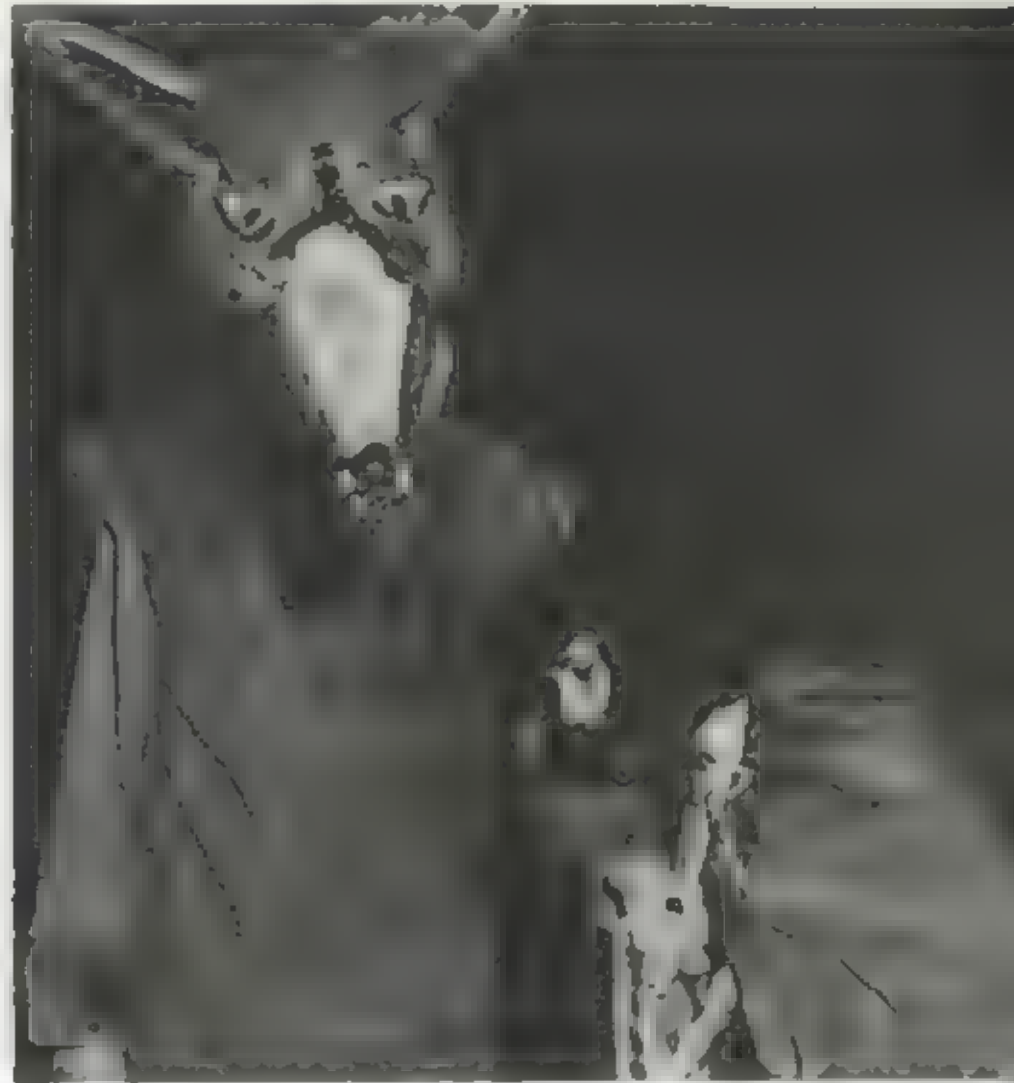

Dancing to the music of the Varsitymen, Larry Ford and Vivien Bailey spend a memorable evening at the Snowball Prom.

Unclearly wondering whether the mean, old wolf will make another appearance, Little Red Riding Hood (Linda Lewis) pauses along the path to her grandmother's house.

Oh, Mr. Wolf, take a quick peek. I'm trying to rush to Grandmother's house!" The proverbial tale of Little Red Riding Hood' encounter with the Wolf is dramatized by Linda Lewis and Bill Swickard.

"Little" Plays — New Phase

A unique twist to Coronado theater was initiated by "Winnie the Pooh's" debut in the Children's Variety Theater. Children from 2 to 12 enjoyed plays written, directed, and dramatized by students from Mr. Fitzgerald's classes. The plays, based on familiar children's stories, included "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Jack in the Beanstalk."

A "minor calamity" in "Winnie the Pooh" puts Christopher Robin (Clayton Minnow) through a busy afternoon, as Winnie (Cherry Prunco) confidently reposes on a nearby tree.

"Rebel" Tests Dons' Imagination

Directed by James Newcomer, Coronado's live production of the former screenplay, Rebel Without A Cause, was an experiment: in truth, a "rebel" production. All scene changes and lights were visible and because only the most basic of props were used, the imagination of the audience provided the settings. Set in the "near past", the events rocketing around juvenile delinquency portrayed a special message to the viewer, one that did not require physical properties for sustention.

"No, by golly, a chicken and gets away with it!" says the Rebel, Ken Howard, as he accepts Buzz (Dennis Faye)....

In midrange, Officer Miller (Ed Fickett), the Rebel, Ken Howard, loudly mimics the whine of a distant siren. Tensely waiting their chance to speak to the juvenile "crew" are Judy (Pat Crocker), Plato (Rich Tarson), and Mrs. Davis (Phyllis Sanderson).

Extending across one wall in the faculty lounge, senior Susan Richards' V.A.A. mural depicts the diverse cultures of students who share the world view. The February unveiling of the mural terminated three and one-half months of steady planning and painting, both after school and during free periods.

New Creations, Traditions

Balancing precariously on a three-inch wide beam approximately three feet from the floor, sophomore Vicky Cooper forms the vertical splits as a member of Coronado's first girls' gymnastics team.

Dons, filling down an aisle in the campus auditorium, now tried an oft-unnoticed addition to the 400 seating. The carpet and during the first week of January projects a more quiet and dignified note into the usually hectic display of shuffling, hustling, and talking inherent in any large gathering of students.

Blaze Coronado's Trail

Four years have elapsed since the first Dons enrolled at Coronado, and since that time new and different trails have been blazed in all areas.

This year, Dons formed their first girls' gymnastics team, carpeted, for the first time the audit room, and recognized an new unexpected and original creative mas experiences.

Holding the singular honor of being the first four year graduating class at Coronado, the 1965 seniors were also the first in initiating the tradition of senior privileges.

The dawn of a new tradition flares, as Donettes Barbara Pries and Karen Seppala initiate the annual "Senior Dance" at a February pep assembly.

Belles, Beaux Pace Theme

Carrying out a theme of "Gone with the Wind," Coronado Criada club members featured real southern-style hospitality at the fourth annual sweetheart prom, held January 30 at Hotel Westward Ho. The southern plantation appeared in the form of table flowers and wall shrubbery.

The evening was highlighted with crowning ceremonies as Principal Clyde Kidd presented the crown to senior Terri Burkland. Attending the queen were seniors Lani Parker and Bonnie Schwab, junior Linda Johnson, sophomore Kathy Patterson, and freshman Sandy Mundi.

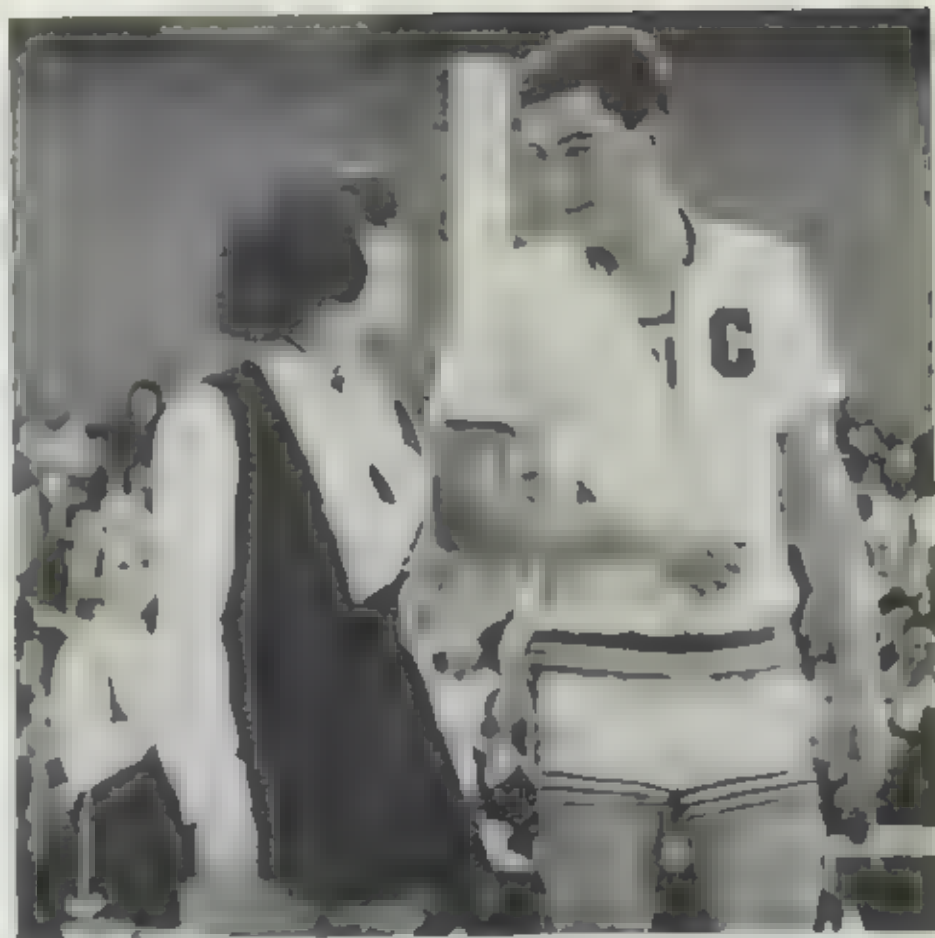

After the crowning by Principal Clyde Kidd, senior Terri Burkland receives a bouquet of royal roses from the 1964 Criada Queen, Linda Mae Jones. Attendants are senior princesses, Bonnie Schwab and Lani Parker, and junior princess, Linda Johnson.

Clad in the apparel of a young plantation servant, freshman Barbara Curtis expresses southern-style hospitality while handing out programs to the "Gone with the Wind" Prom.

Week of anticipation climaxes with the announcement of Queen of Courts recently elected by Steve Bowen is cheerleader Mary Martin.

Awaiting the presentation of roses and carnations to Queen and attendants respectively, is varsity cheerleader Toni Selby, escorted by Bob Dunham.

Skirted Royalty Reign Supreme

Queen of Courts is held annually to recognize the girl with the best spirit, pep, and attendance at games throughout the year selected by the basketball team, candidates Sherry Booth, Mary Martin, and Toni Selby were then voted on by the student body.

At the February 12 half time ceremonies, last year's queen, Susie Charest, presented a bouquet of roses to the newly crowned queen, Sherry Booth. To round out the evening, the sophomore class sponsored a celebration dance in the cafeteria. The valentine sweetheart theme was complete with a throne for the reigning queen.

After a solemn march between two lines of Donettes, the candidates for Queen of Courts are told who is to receive the title. Principal Clyde Kidd places the coveted crown on two-year varsity cheerleader Sherry Booth, as escort Pat Huston looks on.

Parada Pours; Dons Not Dampened

The three mile route through the rain-drenched streets of Scottsdale is covered by the Dons' band, marching for the fourth year as an integral part of the Parada.

Unexpected as they were, the forces driving rain in Scottsdale did not deter the dauntless Dons who joined in the eleventh annual Parada Del Sol. February Drenched after two hours in the world's largest horse drawn parade, Dons still maintained a persevering pace in the form of Donettes, band, majorettes, street cleaners and rodeo beauties. Those not actually in the Parada helped swell the side lines of enthusiastic onlookers.

Pioneer days return, as senior Judy Wacker lives up to the "West's Most Western Town" theme by riding her horse to the Dons' campus for the second consecutive year.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Coronado Howdy Dudes are seniors Linda Lewis and Vicki Temple, and sophomore Kim Overton. Dudes duties consist of greeting visitors at entrances and airports, distributing Scottsdale pamphlets and decorating a float for the Parada Del Sol.

Leading the Dons' band in the 1965 Parada Del Sol parade, senior cheerleaders Sherry Booth and Mary Martin carry the Coronado banner, exhibited for the first this year.

An avid composer of original poems, Jim Mason, a junior Don, is also interested in planning a vocation in accounting. Though homebound, Jim kept his grades above average.

A requirement of sixteen hours of test daily compels Pat Mason to study as a homebound. A school stipulates to graduate after taking certain courses.

Dons Challenged From Home

"Homebounds," Dons away from their grand home, were not able to attend regular school classes, but managed to keep their grade averages high through tutored classes. As homebounds, Pat Mason, James Mason, and Craig Scoplitte were forced to study at home, without the benefit of planned and scheduled school hours.

A homebound, by definition, is a student missing regular classes at school. In order to graduate with his class, senior Craig Scoplitte is obliged to spend many study hours at home.

Fields of earth, navy blue and silver, were the colors of Donette, Patricia, Patsy, Martha, Sherry, and Linda. Seated in the background of the scene was a group of friends.

During the night of the night, Pop, Donette, Car, Patsy, Sherry, Donette, and Patricia, M. M. L. and the pop assembly with a sense of rhythm, action.

Assemblies Arouse Action

"Go, Dons . . . Get 'em, Dons . . . Get 'em, Dons" was the cry of Coronado fans as their spirit rang through the gymnasium walls. Each major football and basketball game during the year was greeted by a pep assembly to arouse and unify school support for the athletic teams. Coronado's six cheerleaders and sixteen Dancer Donettes ignited the spark of spirit for the crowd. A different phase of teamwork with the Dons' pep band, present and playing for each assembly. Unique skits were given by Coronado students to provide an extra boost to the team's morale.

Performing a zany skit of one of the many pep assemblies, senior 1991, Martha and Linda, Linda to see Kim (Hawes) a "Dave" (Hawes) and his little brother.

All Stars Orbit to 51-48 Win

The Coronado Complex All Stars challenged the Ladsno Jets in a game of basketball on the indoor court February 17. Coronado's team was composed of faculty members and community school teachers. KPHO-TV cameras from the "It's Wallace" show and KDOI disc jockey Tony Evans made the Ladsno Jets team.

A pregame show, featuring Hub Kapp and the Wheels, began at 7:00 while game action started at 7:30. Los Hornos cheerleaders added spirit from the side lines. In the Dining Den, a group of student administrators provided half-time entertainment.

The competition was won by the U.S. to the U.S. sled to a 51 to victory over Canada's.

As noted by the author, the data support a bottom-up perspective, as Al-Sayid, Jones, and P. Wicks (2004) suggest that the U.S. is the best place for people who are seeking employment.

Dawn

As a new dawn breaks, the Coronado campus stirs with the refreshed action of returning Dons Judy Wacker, Pat Wald, and Tudy Kelley.

Each Don's day dawned early with an all-out scramble to school before the tard bell rang. Early morning traffic consisted of bikes, cars, motorcycles, and, of course, good old-fashioned shoe leather.

Once on campus, Dons became involved in a whirl of action revolving around studies, friends, clubs, and assemblies. The "day," however, did not automatically end with the last afternoon bell. After sunset on Coronado, dawn broke again and again for Dons in the guise of plays, games, and dances.

Intricate as it is, the make-up of a Don's day became even more complex and interesting through the varied activities held during the year.

Sophomore Jay Morris becomes more deeply interlused in the dreams of tomorrow while the long absence of yesterday's hopes lies in the past.

In the essence of creation Lynn Challoner inspires the structure of a more daring tomorrow using various forms of media. Don's unleash their inner capability to define their unrelated personal

Breaks on a Don's Day

High noon brings a reprieve from fatigued faces as Captain Waller, Capt. Howland and Jell O'Daniel fix up one of the five lunch spots offering a carefully selected selection of food each day.

After the shadows fall a bliske of night and a happy air engulfs Pat Cranston and Ken Howell during a post game lull.

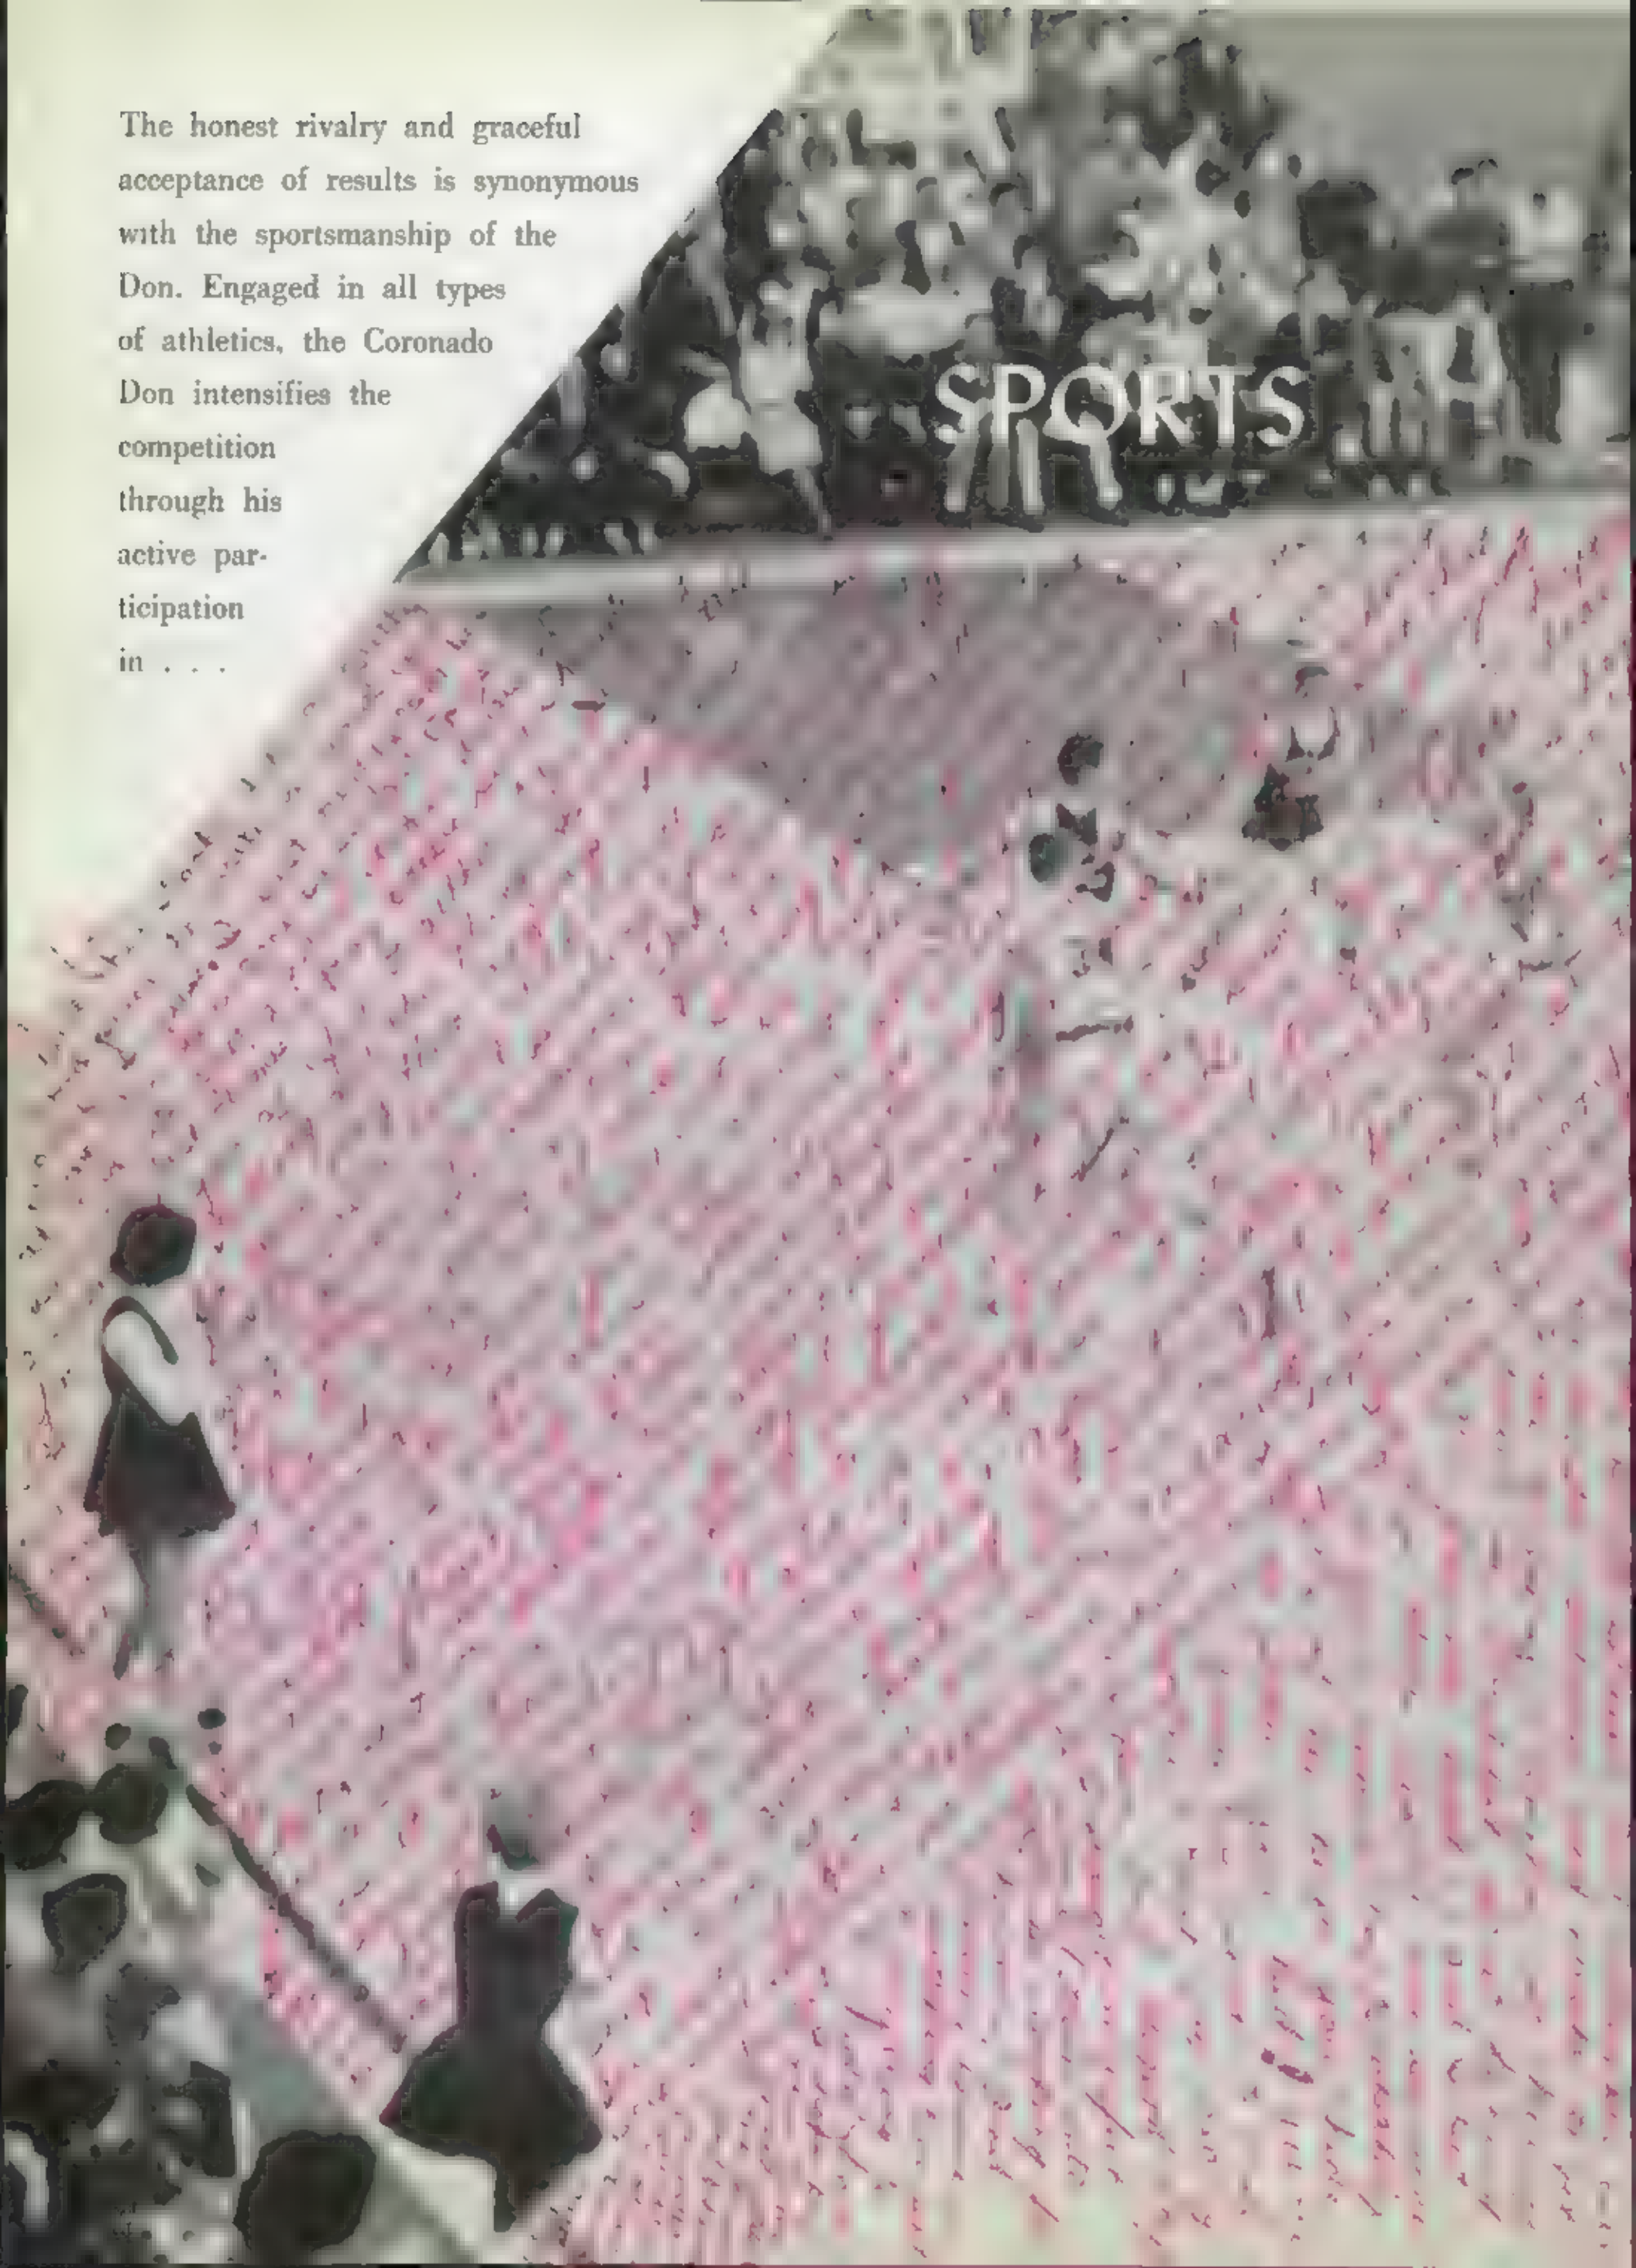

At the end of a long hectic day, the Don's campus lies in quiet repose awaiting still another dawn. Just over the horizon, this day brings promises of a better and richer tomorrow.

The honest rivalry and graceful acceptance of results is synonymous with the sportsmanship of the Don. Engaged in all types of athletics, the Coronado Don intensifies the competition through his active participation in . . .

Senior halfback Dennis McCready gallops to a first down against Chandler, Oct. 9. Neither team mounted a serious offense in the first half, but the Wolves scored two touchdowns in the second half to win 13-0.

of Ten Foes

After losing three of their first five games and scoring a total of 21 points in the contests, the 1964 varsity football team snapped out of their scoring slump and won four of their last five games. The 1964 season was the best in Don history. Les Finger was backfield coach for the third straight year while Ron Wunderly and Ed Anderson completed their fourth years as line and head coaches, respectively.

Coach Anderson was awarded the Phoenix Press Box Association "Crying Towel" for the Dons 32-6 upset of arch-rival Arcadia on Oct. 23.

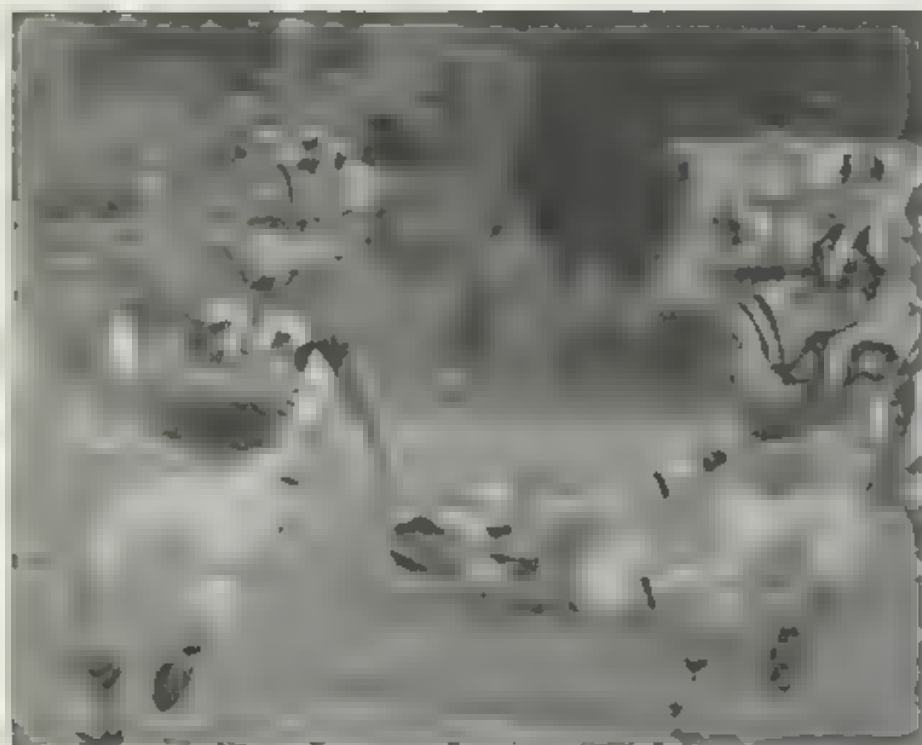

Rusty Chuck smothered a Mesa halfback in the Nov. 6 contest in which the Dons clipped the Rabbits 14-13. It was victory number five for the varsity gridlers.

Sure-footed quarterback Terry Brenner tries to dodge two Arcadia linemen in the Oct. 23 game. Brenner threw three TD passes to lead the Dons to a 32-6 rout of the Titans.

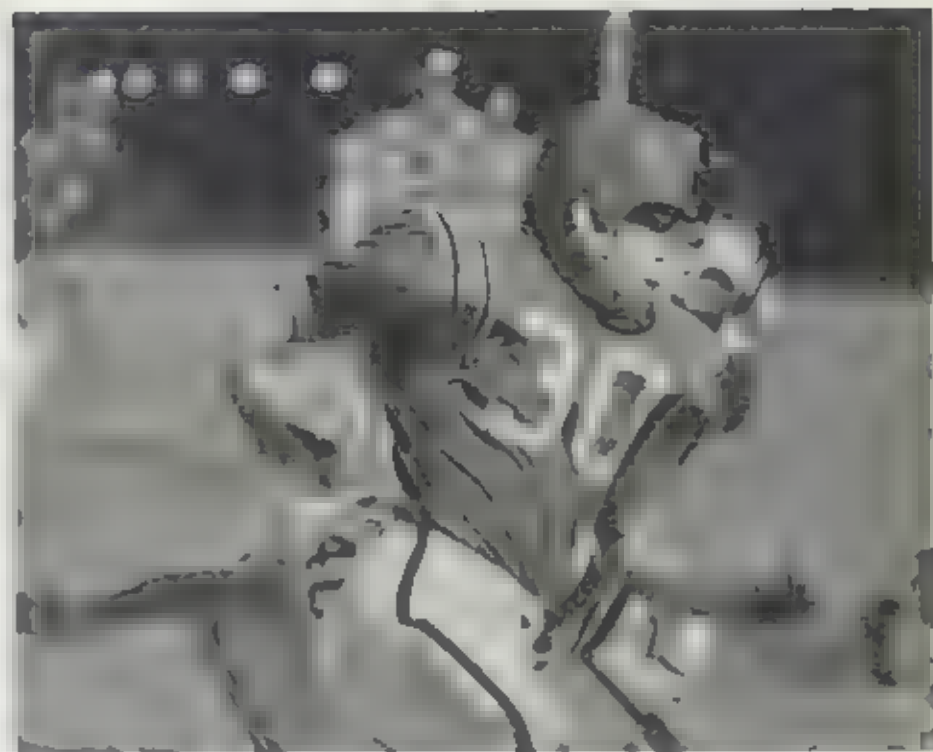

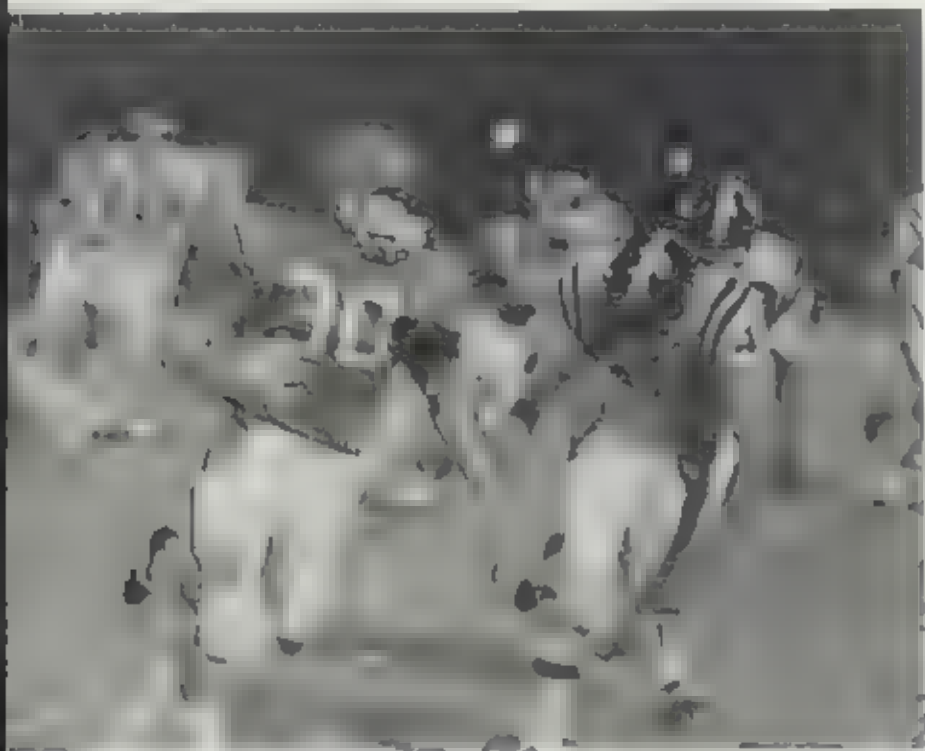

Fulback Robyn Chapman is caught in sequence as he skirts the end in the Casa Grande game, Oct. 31. Robyn, who was selected Player of the Week for his performance, led the Dons to a 25-6 whitewashing of the Cougars.

Dons Top Arcadia Titans, Mesa

Fumble! Terry Brenner is hit hard by three Scottsdale Beavers, causing the ball to slip from his grasp. The Beavers, ranked third in the state by United Press International, handed the Dons a 27-7 loss.

Jackrabbits for First Time

Steve Hupke is senior end, snags a pass as he chases a Yuma player in the season's opener, Sept. 28. The Yuma team downed the Dons 23-6.

Football Not One but a Combination

Water is the pause that refreshes interior linemen Paul Hamley and Steve Walker. Steve became the first varsity football player to win four letters in football.

Don football players Steve Walker (75), Tom Dahl (71), Dick McCombs (82), Dennis McCready (40), Mike Smith (directly across from McCombs) and Steve Hopkins (80) regroup forces during a hectic game.

The head-on clash between the two opposing lines sets a football play in motion. Offensively, the quarterback hopes to completely fool the defense.

It is the job of the defensive linemen to diagnose the play with help from any or all of the linebackers.

During a varsity game, J.V. football coaches Theo Heap and George LoSatz serve as a second pair of eyes for the coaches on the ground. In addition to radioing information to a coach on the field Heap and LoSatz take films of the games.

Backfield coach Les Finger explains the basics of the 327 reverse pass to line coach Ron Wunderly and head coach Ed Anderson. Such conferences are a hidden ingredient of the success or failure of a season.

Tim Huston's father anxiously watches as his son is carried away in an ambulance to Mesa General Hospital. Tim, who sustained a ruptured appendix in the Westwood game, was feared to be lost for the balance of the season but was back in uniform after missing only two games.

JV's Outplay

Guided by Theo Heap and George L. Satz, the J.V. football team compiled a mark of six wins and two losses. With the exception of Scottsdale and Arcadia, the J.V.'s outplayed all their opponents; the pinnacle of which was the 46-26 conquest of the Casa Grande Cougars. The team also earned the distinction of being the first winning team in J.V. football at Coronado. Special recognition goes to halfback Steve Dir who led the junior varsity in scoring with twelve touchdowns.

The Westwood Warriors are Steve Dir's victims as he rips off a long gain in the Oct. 1 13-7 win. Dir, who was the J.V.'s most explosive back, starred against Casa Grande as he accounted for a quintet of TD's and a pair of extra points.

Ralph Long tries to clear a path for Gary Thompson against the Scottsdale Beavers on Nov. 4. Although the J.V. gridgers tamed 21 points for their third highest total of the season, they lost the bruising battle to the Beavers who mounted 25 points.

Notch 13-5 Mark

Coach Theo Heap blended experience and youth as his varsity cagers notched a 13-5 record, good enough for a second Division I tie. The Dons won a coin toss for second but instead chose third place for play-off purposes.

Heap's hoopsters started sluggishly, losing three of their first seven tussles. An invisible shot of adrenalin energized them from its state of suspension as they won nine of their last eleven games, including a record 80 points against Chandler in 1964.

Pat Huston and Jeff Mackey hijack a rebound from Mess in the Jackrabbit game of Feb. 5. The Jackrabbits dealt the Dons their first loss of the season.

Guard Terry Brummer is stymied in his efforts to rack up two points as a defender blocks his shot. The mysterious jinx Tempe possesses over its players continued during the '64-65 court campaign as the Dons lost to the Devils.

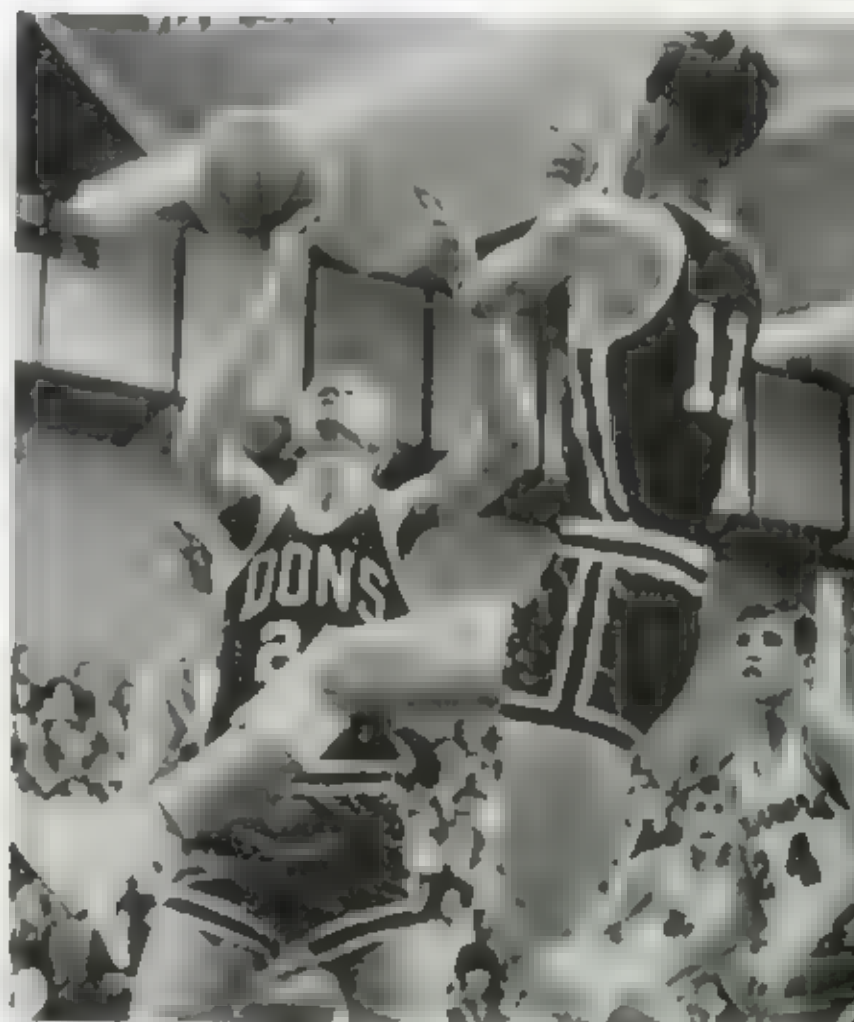

A Yuma Criminal sinks a field goal despite the efforts of senior forward Pat Huston. Yuma ambushed the Dons 58-55 in Yuma Dec. 18, but the Dons gained revenge with a 66-49 triumph Jan. 18.

Don Cagers Start Sluggishly

The 64-65 court campaign commenced Dec. 11 for the Dons as they entertained the Westwood Warriors. A missed shot by reserve forward Dan Williams is rebounded by Craig Darrington. The Dons scalped the Warriors 66-51.

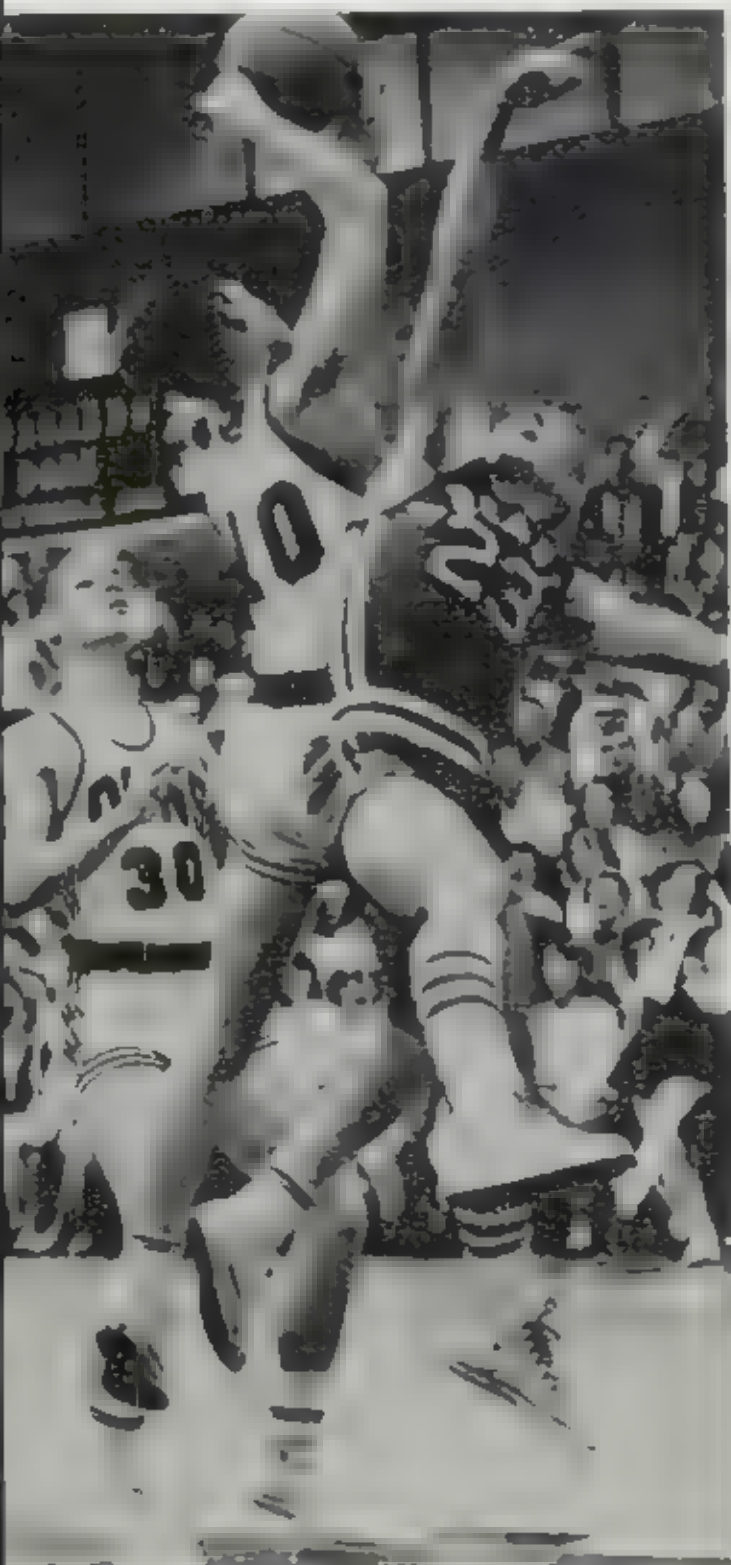

Guard Terry Brenner barely misses blocking a Scottsdale Beaver's shot in the Dec. 22 game. The frigid shooting Beavers fell 13 points behind at the end of the first quarter and never recovered as the Dons won, 54-38.

As Jeff Mackey, Dan Williams, and Pat Huston cover, Steve Bowen battles for possession of the ball with a Mesa player. Craig Darrington's last minute jumper gave the Dons a 51-50 victory.

Drop Three of First Seven Games

Dan Williams (11) snatches a rebound from teammate Ron Barr in the Jan. 12 clash with Mesa. Dan and Barr, who scored 13 and 12 points respectively, led the Dons to a 51-50 triumph.

Arcadia's top scoring guard Ron Barr is Dan Williams' victim as Williams buckets two points in the Jan. 9 contest. Coronado's Steve Rowen tangled up Barr, allowing the Dons to subsequently trounce the Titans 55-48.

Senior center Jeff Mackey clears the boards in the Jan. 8 game on Tempe's court. Tempe, led by Rich Daniel and Tim Varella, dumped the Dons for their third loss, 56-44.

Many Leaf Through the "Story"

Jeff Mackey, Dan Williams, and Terry Brenner watch the action with rapt attention. Dan and Terry served as substitutes while Jeff was the team's star man.

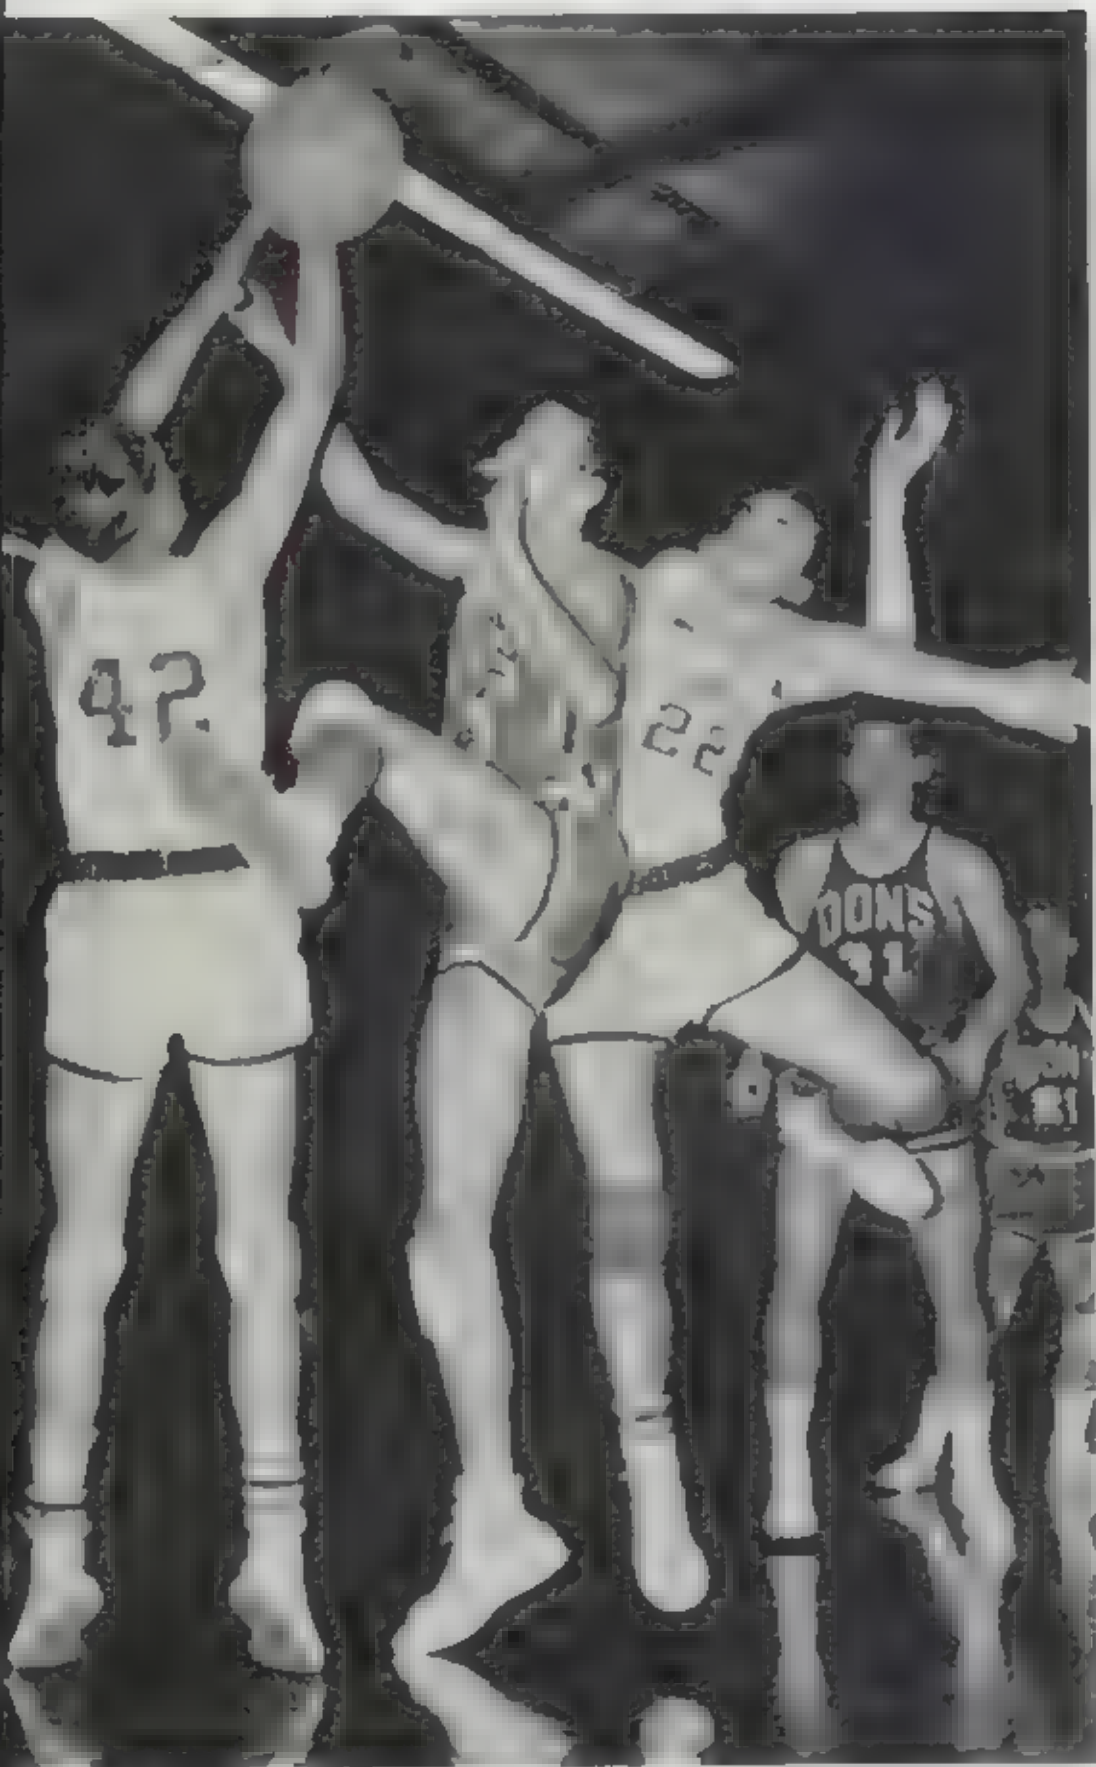

Many things transcend before the eyes of a player. He watches avidly and hopes fervently that his team will control the game. He looks to his coach for advice or for a pass while simultaneously watching the moves of his man. He observes the influx of fresh players into the line-up, the change of the lead, and the strengths and weaknesses of his evening's assignment. Last, and perhaps most important, he must be able to transform the raw data into useful game strategy. This, then, is the "Story of Basketball."

Disgust, exaltation, disappointment are only three of the emotions Coach Thompson Heap experiences as a game runs its course.

Coach Heap gives directions to his team during a timeout. The halftime and timeout gave Coach Heap and the team the opportunity to put matters in retrospect and to plan second half strategy.

of Basketball”

For every ball thrown the better, which starts the game in action. Jay Mackey (42) tricks the opposition, forward Dick McCards (31) and Steve Lawson (21).

Team that puts the ball. Mackey backs it off away from the basket against Mesa. The performance of a team. The game will determine the outcome of the game.

Dons Grab Third Place

"Almost, but not quite," is the phrase that would best summarize the Don fortune in the state basketball tournament. In the first game, played on Feb. 26, Coronado dumped Catalina 60-50 as Jeff Mackey led all scorers with 20 points. The Dons next opponent, Scottsdale, put their marksmanship into cold storage as the Dons romped to a 51-30 victory.

The Don bubble was punctured in the third round by North Phoenix. Although they trailed by a scant five points at halftime, the Dons were stymied in the second half and lost 66-51. The Dons gained some compensation for their loss as they fatalistically wounded Camelback 62-51 for third place.

Dan Williams, Jeff Mackey, and Dick McCombs fight for a rebound in the Catalina game. Paced by Jeff's 20 points, Dan's 17 and Pat's 13, the Dons outdistanced the Trojans 60-50.

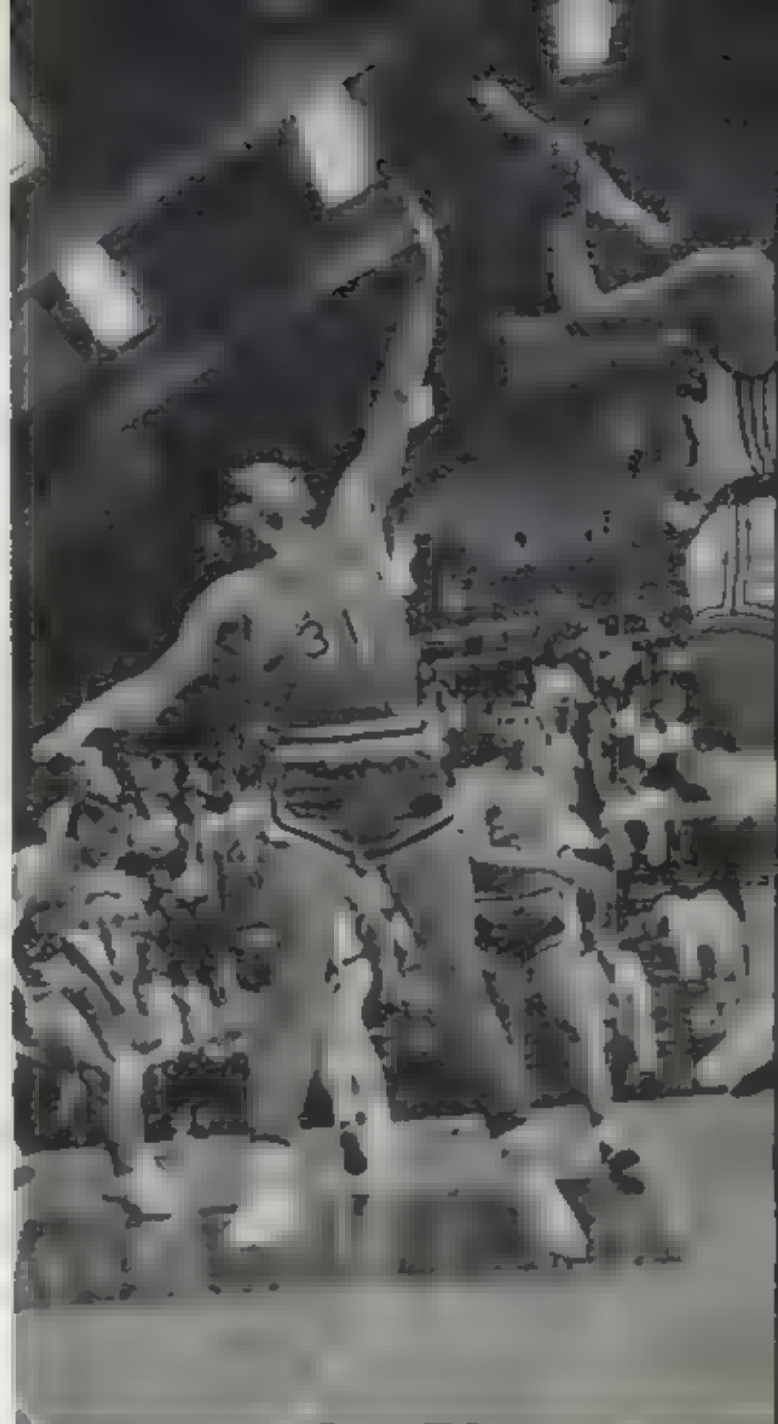

While Mustang Wirt Twitchell and Don Craig Darrington watch warily, Coronado's Dick McCombs tries a shot in the North conflict. North bumped the Dons out of state contention as they won 66-51.

Craig, Jeff Voted All-Tourney

Forward Pat Hoston shoots unsuccessfully in the consolation game with team back Craig Darlington. By sinking 23 points, led the Dons to a 62-51 beating of the Spartans.

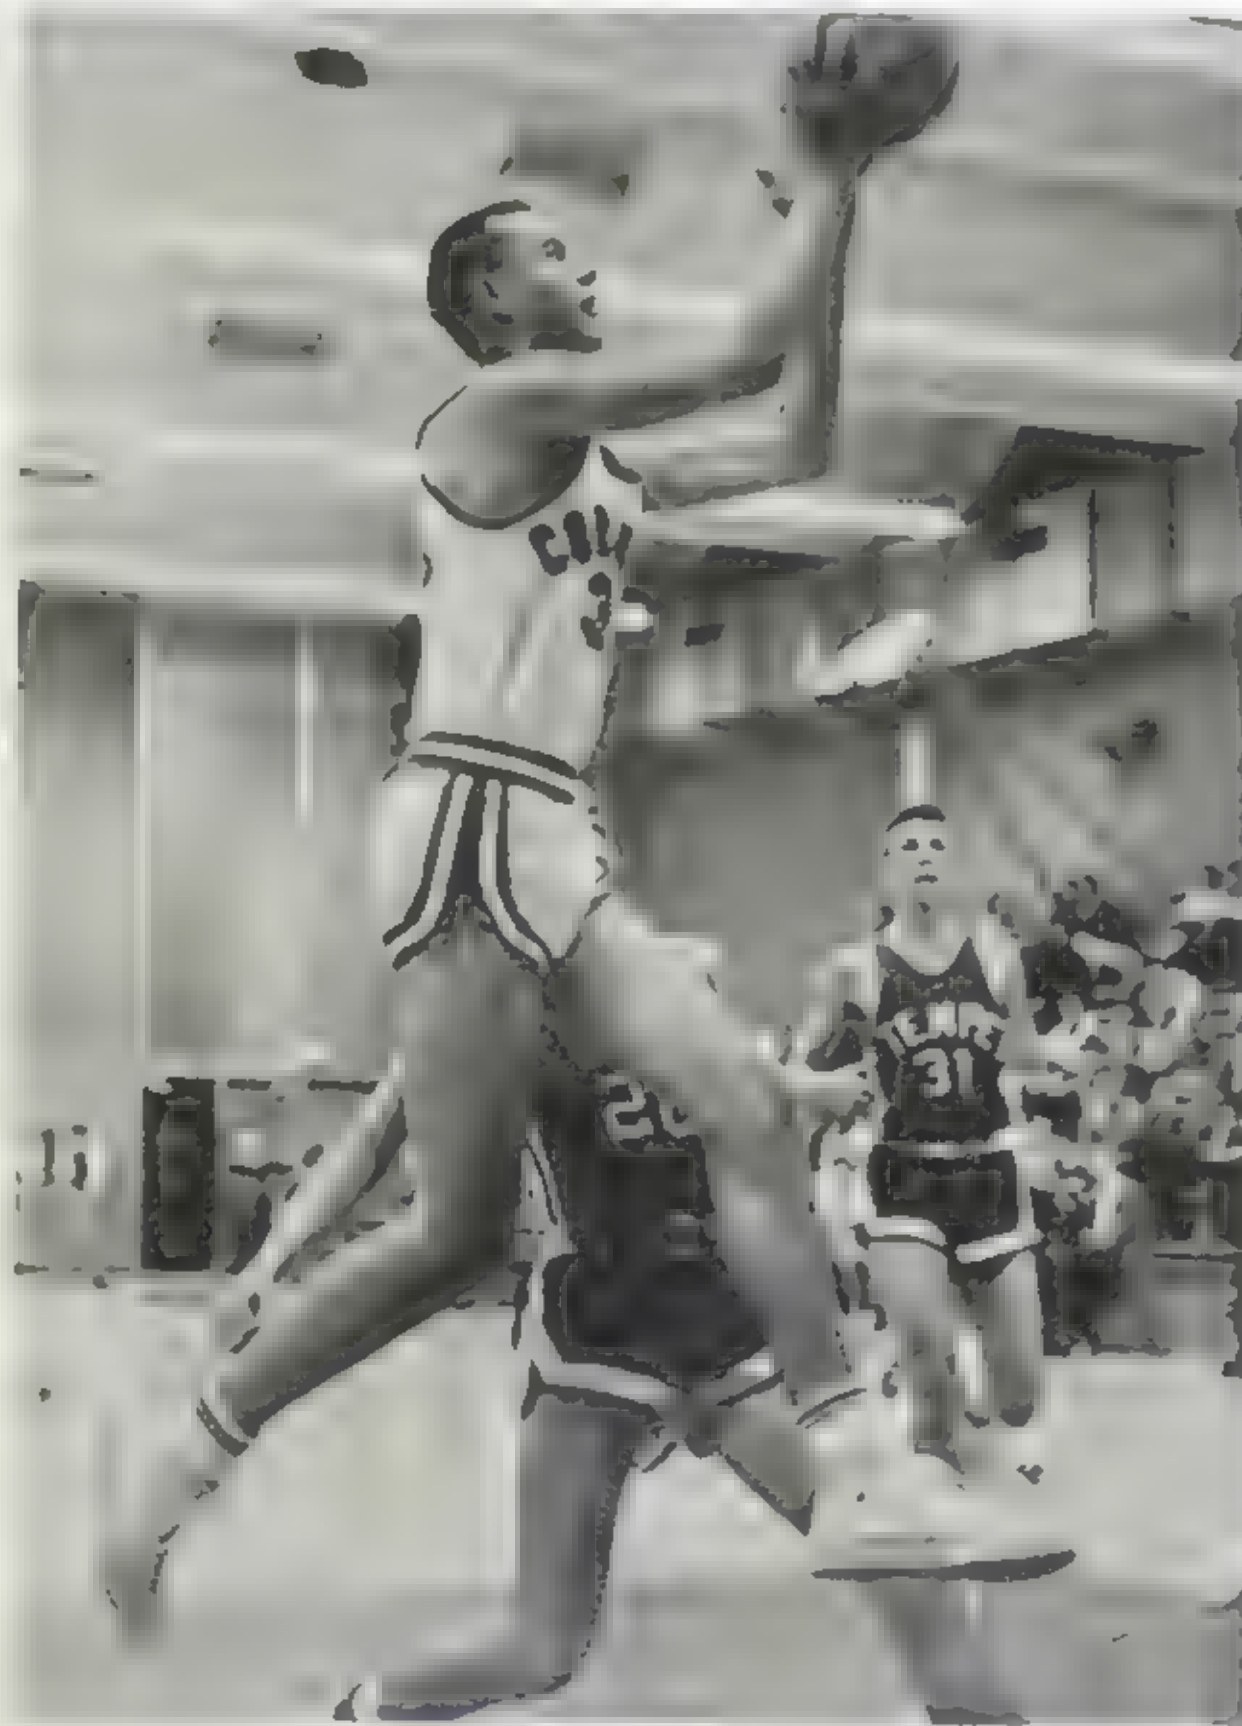

Second round action finds Don center Steve Brown shooting over the outstretched arm of Scottsdale's Jeff Hader. The Dons punched the Braves, 52-40, to advance to the final round.

Craig Darlington, who was chosen for the All-Tourney second team, congratulates Jeff Muckey, who was picked for the first team. The announcement of the teams followed the conclusion of the championship game between North and Rineen.

J. V. Cagers Link Speed, Hustle

Joe Mackey missed a defense attempt in the Tempe game of Feb. 12. Joe began the season as a member of the freshman A team, was subsequently elevated to the junior varsity, and spent the last three games in the varsity squad.

Speed plus hustle yield a good basketball team. Catalyze this reaction with good coaching and the result is an ever better team. The '64-65 J.V.'s utilized this formula and carved out a 13-5 slate. This year junior varsity was instructed by George LaSatz.

The J.V.'s incurred losses in both Scottsdale games and split battles with Tempe, Westwood and Mesa. In the latter part of the campaign, the team acquired an unexpected scoring punch in the person of freshman Joe Mackey.

J.V. hoopster Sam Reynolds nets two points against Chandler Jan. 29. The Dons creamed the Wolves 75-34 and 64-40 on Jan. 29 and Feb. 19, respectively.

'A' Courtmen Win 11 Tussles

After pooling their records, the freshman basketball teams had a composite 19-11 slate. Jerry Menefee's "B's" were lackluster against most teams but they ran wild against Chandler. Their final tally was 8-4. The loss of Joe Mackey was thought to be detrimental to "A" aspirants but still Roy Coppinger's "A" squad managed to whip 11 of 14 opponents.

* "B" courtman Larry Mathews shoots unsuccessfully in the Feb. 17 clash with Tempe. The "B's" won the game by seven points, 39-32.

Gary Doran makes a full effort to score a bucket in the 'A' game with Tempe, Feb. 12. The team ran their record to 9-3 after winning 47-35.

Ron Vesgaard leaps high for a rebound in the "B" encounter with Westwood on Dec. 11. The 'B's' started the campaign on the wrong foot as they fell to the Warriors, 38-32.

Two year mat veteran Robyn Chapman displays his mat know-how in the Jan. 2 20-18 loss to Mesa. Robyn took first place in the Division I meet held at Westwood on Feb. 12-13.

An Arcadia wrestler tries vainly to depose Mike Smith of Coronado. Although Mike pinned his man to add five points to the team score, the Dons absorbed their sixth defeat in the Feb. 2 affair.

Mat Tourney

Although they put up a valiant effort throughout the entire season, the Ron Wuncoy coached wrestlers dropped all nine of their meets. The closest the varsity matmen came to scoring a victory was in the Mesa meet. Having an unusually difficult time were the grapplers who weighed less than 133 pounds. A general lack of mat experience hampered these boys as they won but even matches all season.

The Dons finished second in the division meet and Benny Visser, Tom Dahl, Mike Smith, Robyn Chapman and Paul Hanley qualified for the state meet.

Paul Hanley, who wrestled in the 138 pound class, is caught in an unexpected position by his Colitz counterpart in the Dec. 8 meet. The Colts bombed the Dons 33-11.

J. V. Wrestlers Spin, Sputter

The J.V. grapplers, under the tutelage of Robert McCaffrie, spun and sputtered throughout the '64-65 campaign as they gleaned but two wins in their seven match schedule. After losing their opener to Yuma, the J.V.'s topped Cortez. A three game losing streak was squelched after a victory over Tempe; their season was ended with a narrow loss to Arcadia.

J.V. grappler Sal Uriarte emulates an Arcadia wrestler in the Feb. 2 home meet. The junior varsity wrestling team absorbed their fifth loss, 26-22.

Love, lob, add-in, add-out, are familiar terms to tennis buffs. First to gain "tennis fever" were the freshmen. Joe Duarte and Marilyn Goldman, who also doubled as varsity coaches instructed the tyros. The "fever" struck again in January as the varsity season began. At press time, the varsity girls stood at two-four while the varsity boys were winless in seven starts.

32 Bid for Swim Berths

Thirty-two candidates sought to earn a berth on the '65 swimming team as practice commenced on Feb. 8. Coach John Anderson felt that Steve Bennett, junior, and Dave Colkett, senior, would backbone the team. The former finished high in diving in the '64 state meet while the latter was the best sprint swimmer on the team. Coronado competed against Westwood, Yuma, Brophy, Arcadia, West Phoenix, Kof Mesa, and Scottsdale. All home meets were held at the Scottsdale city pool.

Duffers Battle Faculty Sextet

The '65 golf season commenced March for this year's golf team. Their first opponents were faculty members Mike Dant, golf coach, William Kelley, Herbert Sherman, Glenn Irvin, E. L. Hanson, and Thomas Boulet. Results were not available at press time.

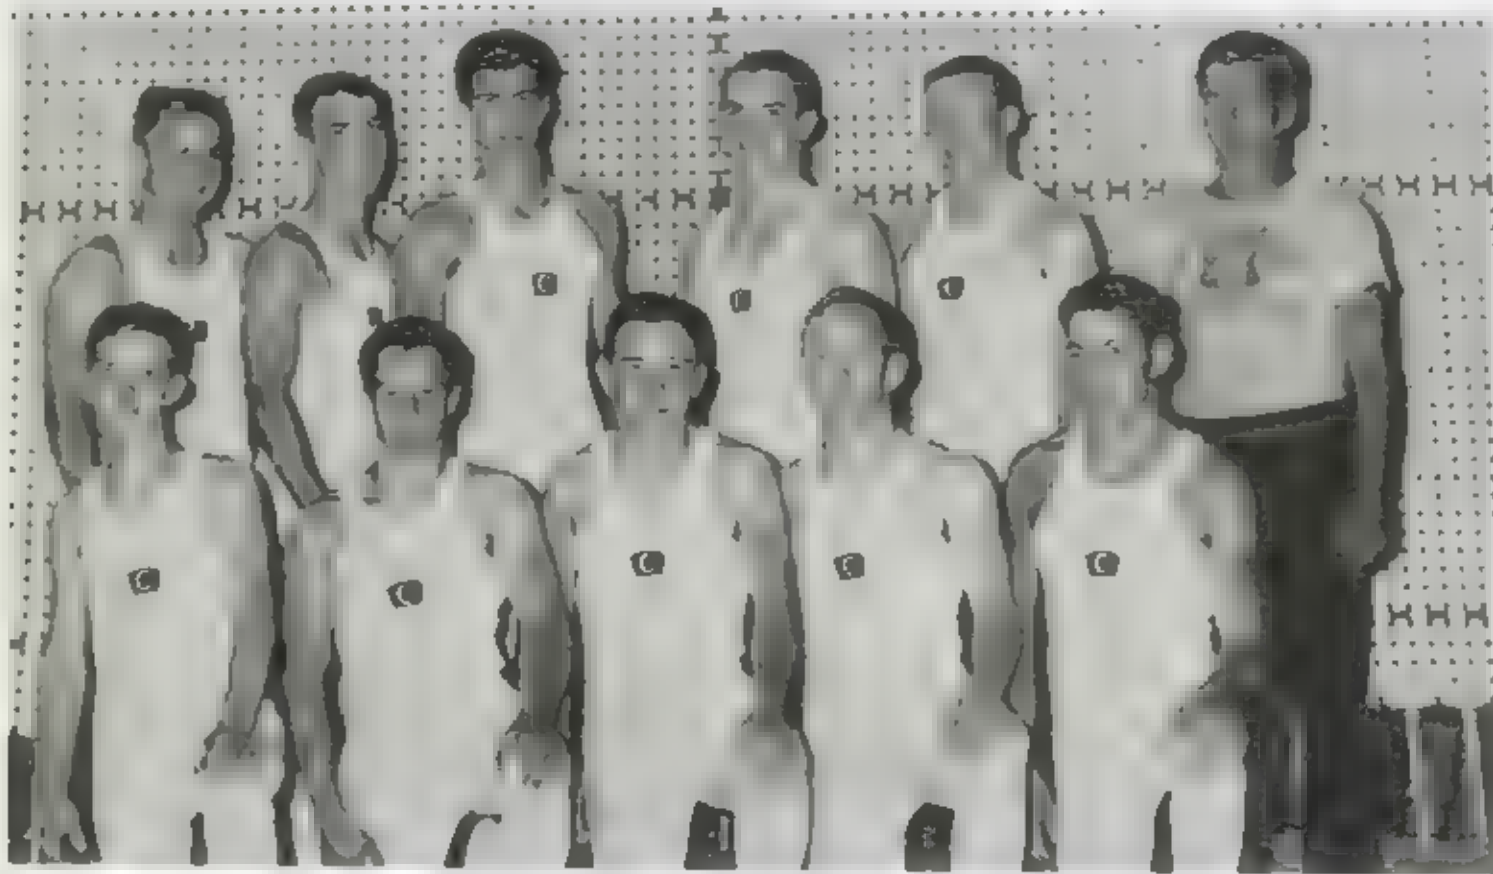

The duffers were scheduled to compete against Arcadia, Scottsdale, Yuma, Kofa, Tempe, Chandler, Westwood, Casa Grande and Mesa.

Gym Squad

With a new coach and four returning lettermen, the Don gymnastic team sought to duplicate their '64 state championship. Harvey Plant, who was the gymnastic coach at Phoenix Union, became head mentor for the '65 year. Leading the returnees was Darryl Bair, second in all-around competition in the '64 state meet. Joining him were Rich Stovall and Bill Pilgrim who were in the upper ten in tumbling. Trampoline enthusiast John Segar completed the quartet.

As part of his routine, Rich Stovall does a suicide on the trampoline. Rich and Bill Pilgrim were the two top Dons competing on the trampoline.

Ralph Weiss, junior, performs a scissors on the side horse in an after-school practice. Ralph, who was a member of the team as a freshman, returned to gymnastics after a year's absence.

A handstand on the parallel bars is a favorite maneuver for senior Bill Pilgrim. Bill, along with Rich Stovall and Darryl Bair, became the first four-year lettermen in gymnastics at Colorado.

Train Varsity Thinclads

The single head coach idea was abandoned by this year's trio of track coaches. There were three "head" coaches under the new set-up. Clarence Spong taught varsity drillers and J.V. and frosh pole vaulters, high jumpers and broad jumpers. Coaching long distance runners and weightmen was the task of Gerald Wood. Besides handling the sprinters, Les Finger instructed the varsity high jumpers, pole vaulters and broad jumpers.

HONORS

TRAIL Honors Outstanding Students

A difficult decision for Dons came on January 4 and 5. Students holding yearbook receipts were asked to honor the most deserving senior boy and girl by electing them Mr. and Miss Trail.

Candidates for the honor were chosen by a committee consisting of Mrs. Evelyn Skekey, senior sponsor, William Kelley, assistant principal and Fred Berry, TRAIL honors section editor. The six seniors—Andi Arthur, Lani Parker, Laura Sahlin, George Jett, Lorin Shelley and Bob Swan were selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service.

Names of the royalty were withheld until a special ceremony in May when it was revealed that Lani Parker and Lorin Shelley were to reign as Mr. and Miss Trail for 1965.

Homecoming Crowns Football Season

The essence of "The Seven Cities of Cibola" was in the air as Keith Hoffman and Linda Seely were crowned Coronado's 1965 Homecoming king and queen. Crowning ceremonies for Queen Linda and King Keith took place during the halftime of the October 30 football game. Attending Linda and Keith were Sherry Booth, Carolyn Charest, Robyn Chapman and Bob Swan.

On October 14, the six seniors were nominated by the class of '65; the final vote was then put before the student body on October 19 and 20.

"Gone With the Wind" set the mood at the crowning of 1965 Criada Queen Terrie Arkland on January 30 at the Westward Hotel in Phoenix. Honored as princesses were Lani Parker and Bonnie Whwab, seniors, Linda Johnson, junior, Cathy Patterson, sophomore and Sandy Lundt, freshman.

Dons in each of the underclasses chose the princess for their court. Senior Dons nominated two girls and the Criada Club entered one to vie for the crown. The student body then voted to select a queen from these three.

For Coronado's 1965 basketball season, Jerry Booth was crowned Queen of Courts. Attendants to the queen were Mary Martin and Toni Selby.

Pave Paths for Awards

Speakers at the 1965 graduation ceremonies were chosen from the top 5% of the senior class, who attained this rank through their scholastic accomplishments.

Six Coronado seniors rank scholastically among the upper 1% of the nation, according to the standards set by the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests. As a result of the second College Board exams, these six seniors became finalists and were eligible for the Merit Final, which determined the scholarship winners.

As graduation approached, many seniors were awarded scholarships to Arizona and out of state colleges. These scholarships were awarded on the basis of academic achievement, financial need and ACT and SAT scores.

MERIT FINALISTS Rich Syller, Richard Jones, Lee Cooper, Jay McCarthy, Robert Phillips. Myron Arango, senior, was also named a Merit finalist.

Musical Dons

Fourteen Dons earned the honor of being members in either the All State band or orchestra or chorus, and seven were members of the Phoenix Youth Symphony. These highly coveted honors require a wide scope of musicianship and dedication.

Paul Kreiling, a senior percussionist, was chosen to play with the School Band of America in Europe. He is one of the ninety-eight members from the United States.

Standing near the threshold of the show business world at the Phoenix Star Theater are All State chorus members Robyn Chapman, Colleen Cranmer, and Daylin Dir.

Coronado Government for Dons

Maintaining a well paced and active school year was the over all responsibility of the student council. The leadership and capability of these Dons helped them perform many successful events. The molding and polishing of the Arizona State Student Council Convention, gave Coronado that extra shine while in the limelight of many visitors. Another of the council's foremost activities was the fourth annual Homecoming and related festivities.

Membership in the National Honor Society is extended to those Dons who meet the specified academic qualifications. Aiming at the level of a whole person is one of the standards these Dons worked to uphold. During this year the NHS members sponsored the sale of sweatshirts and were in charge of the class of 67's graduation ceremonies. During this year the wearing of National Honor Society emblems were displayed on letter sweaters for the first time at Coronado.

Members of Quill and Scroll strive to instill the ideals of scholarship and to advance their knowledge in the field of journalism. Quill and Scroll membership is open to juniors and seniors on the upper one-third of their class and who have done superior work in the field of journalism either on the TRAIL staff or the EXPLORER staff.

DECA Programs Youth Employment

DECA is a curricular activity of the Distributive Education program. The 2 Dons in the DE program were provided with the opportunity to gain a vast scope of occupational understanding under the advisement of Mr. Herbert Sherman. DECA participated in the Arizona State Delegation Assembly, the State Leadership Conference, and the Annual Employer-employee banquet.

Between work hours and school hours, the members of DECA, assisted with the painting of the window. Regina Herman, Boy Jason, Cheryl Deal, Denise Mathews, Jeannette DeRowles, Peggy Nelson, and Jeff Austin work to design and paint the window.

Thespians Mold Sets for Histrionics

The 31 members of the National Thesians Society devoted large amounts of time, effort, energy, and talent in achieving another successful year in the field of drama. Under the sponsorship of James Newcomer, the Thespians worked toward mastery of their art. As a fund-raising project, the group sold concessions at the Omaha Cornado football game.

During fund-raising, members made trees, wood stoves for senior Thespians and Ayres and Arch Artistic National Thespians work on all sets and stage preparation for the fine arts productions.

The Foreign Language Association remained unified under one organization during the '64-'65 school year. Under the heading though, it separated into four branches—French club, German club, Latin club and Spanish club. The purpose of these groups was to keep their language alive at Coronado and to further the knowledge of their language. Among the activities were guest speakers, films, the celebration of Foreign Language Week and participation in Roman Week.

Explorer, Trail Staffs

Covering beats, writing and rewriting stories were two seemingly never ending tasks of the EXPLORER staff. Two titles, one a returnee and the other new, highlighted the pages. After a two-year absence, a car column reappeared on the sports page. Winner of the featured event contest earned a free ticket to a sporting event.

From the beginning of September to the end of February the TRAIL staff recorded the events of the '64-'65 year. For reader interest, class and faculty sections were moved to the back of the book. To house the growing amount of content, the book increased in size from  $7\frac{3}{4}'' \times 10\frac{1}{2}''$  to  $9'' \times 12''$ .

Students' Talents Shine in Creative

The Poster club, responsible for informing students of coming events, spent many after school hours preparing posters for dances, games, and plays. From the designing to the actual reproduction of the posters by the silk screen method was entirely a student club activity.

*Screening posters for the dramatics production "The Red Riding Hood" are Lisa Chalmers, Cindy Osborne, Lynn K. and Vern Haupt.

The Coronado Speech club provided an excellent opportunity for Dons interested in the field of public speaking. By entering speech tournaments around the state, initiating Coronado's First Annual Speech Festival and providing a Christmas program at the Crippled Children's Hospital they maintained a busy pace.

Clubs; Art, Speech — Tools of Light

Always striving toward achieving more beauty in the home and on the Coronado campus was the primary concern of the members of Bellas Artes. The art club took pride in displaying art work in the form of paintings in the library, and a wall mural in the teachers' lounge.

The purpose of the Future Teachers of America is to interest high school students in the teaching profession by giving professional information to members. The club attended the State FTA Convention March 19 and 20 in Tucson, recognizing April as "Career in Teaching" month, and presented an FTA scholarship to a deserving member. Mrs. Lynette Knight, social studies teacher, acted as sponsor.

To further their understanding in the interests of better business, the Future Business Leaders of America engaged in related activities. Foremost was the competition among the members in the Salt River Project's Computer Operated Business Simulation game.

E. R. Gyurko, head of the business department, served as club sponsor.

Life Work

United by a common interest in the medical field, FMS planned many beneficial activities. A tour of Good Samaritan Hospital gave members first hand knowledge of the problems of hospital administration. At the end of the year, the Future Medical Students awarded a scholarship to a worthy member.

Collectors, Roadrunners Dawn in '65

Newly formed this year, the Coronado Roadrunners club gave members the chance to develop themselves physically through hard running. Almost daily the boys ran a predetermined course of three to ten miles in the Scottsdale area. For boys going out for track later in the year, this club was highly beneficial in conditioning.

The Coronado Collectors' club, organized for the first time this year, joined together interested Dons in the active advancement of stamp and coin collecting. Throughout the year, members sold, exchanged and discussed their various collections.

Rifles, Books Arm Dons in Wisdom

To promote a greater interest among students in the use of books and the library is the main goal of the Library club. To achieve a greater understanding with parents, the members presented a program open house explaining the services of the library. The club also maintained the attractive displays in the foyer of the library.

Training students in shooting safety and providing a safe marksmanship program was the main purpose of the newly formed Rifle club. Two Hunter Safety courses began soon after the club was organized.

The main concern of these 28 musical Dons was the presentation of the annual Christmas Prom. This year's theme, "Snowball," was carried out in a brightly decorated wonderland of enjoyment. Membership in Band and Orchestra Lettermen is attainable only when the specified number of points are acquired by a member of either the Dons' Band or Concert Orchestra.

The 12 Choral Lettermen, under the advisement of Robert Frazier, worked toward generating their enthusiasm to the student body through their work. In addition to creative achievements, they sold "Bucks for Banne's," a campaign to provide American flags for all Colorado classrooms.

Together

To further the high ideals of good sportsmanship was the goal set up by the Athletic Lettermen's Club. Membership is open to all athletes who have received a varsity letter in any sport and wish to join the club. Included in the club's activities is the maintaining of the "Don's" planter.

Amicae, L. H.

Taking tickets, handing out programs and ushering patrons to their seats are the duties attended to by Amicae members at plays and concerts. Debbie Gibbs accepts a ticket from a patron at one of the productions.

The ushering for all of Coronado's fine arts productions was the duty of Amicae club. Smarting bright red tailored suits, white blouses, and black heels, these girls acted as hostesses for all Coronado activities presented in the auditorium. Amicae also ushered at open house at the State Student Council Convention.

AMICAE . . . Front row: Mary Frazier, Glenda Desautels, Sharon Canaway, Diana Luck, Georgia Burman, Joyce Costanzo, Ann Bennington, Barbara Karla, Kathy Cornell, Vicki Wood, Regina Herman. The 64-65 school year activities of Los Hermanos spelled, "ACTION". These boys, sponsored by Bruce Ingmire, worked toward the preservation of Coronado's beauty by having a year round clean-up campaign. Wearing their navy blue shirts and LH jackets, they ushered at football and basketball games, sponsored the 3rd annual homecoming card section, guarded the seal in the foyer of the auditorium, worked at the State Student Council Convention, and held a dance to raise funds.

Ushering at all home football and basketball games was the major project of Los Hermanos. Larry Forsythe, and many of his fellow LH'ers spent their game time supervising the stands.

Lide Kvinda Beta, composed of 30 junior girls, worked toward serving their school and community. In carrying out these goals the club guided the Frosh on Freshman Orientation Day, did volunteer work at the Girl's Club, assisted in the Arizona State Student Council convention, and painted a window for Homecoming. In doing so Lida Kvinda Beta helped uphold the high standards of serving Coronado and the community.

Placing pins in pep cards is a tedious task for Vicki Huber, Miss Nancy John, and Barbara Karla, but selling "Don't Bash the Buffs" cards before the Tempe football game earned money for Lida Kvinda Beta's Jr-Sr Prom donation.

Beverly Lucas carries out the service initiated by Alpha Omega this year in giving eleven Iowa III flowers on his birthday. All teachers were wished birthday greetings with a flower on their birthdays in Alpha Omega.

Service to all students and faculty members was the main purpose of Alpha Omega. Assisting the librarians after school, by helping books and filing cards was one of their main projects. Each morning they raised the flag in the hall.

This year navy blue and white uniforms added a new touch of character to the job.

'65 Marks Frosh Debut in Pep Club

With membership previously open to girls above ninth grade, Pep Club instituted a new tradition this year by also admitting interested freshman girls, in addition to regular members.

Wearing bright scarlet, navy blue, and white outfits at every game, members were a major force in producing pep and helping support the team. Participation in the "card section" and free distribution of pep cards and pep ribbons highlighted the year's history.

Receiving a Pep Card from Pep Club President Sandy Bowe for her participation in the "card section" is Tracy R. who also received a pep ribbon.

Pep Club Officers . . . Janet Dietrich, treas.; Sandy Bowe, pres.; Diane Bruce, I.C. rep.; Andi Bennington, veep.; Betty Hammell, pari.

GAA Goals High

Setting its goal high, the Girls' Athletic Association scored its mark at Coronado. A new club on campus, it was organized this year to promote a better extracurricular athletic program for interested girls.

Club members participated in volleyball games among themselves against the Coronado Los Hermanos club, and later in interschool competition at Agua Fria. For several weeks, senior girls competed in archery. February brought basketball competition between Coronado, Scottsdale, and Arcadia GAA.

Jumping for the tip-off, active GAA members limber up during a practice session for the Arcadia-Coronado-Scottsdale basketball competitions.

Because smooth routines at games and pep assemblies call for long hours of practice, J.V. cheerleaders Bonnie Martin and Mary Lou May perfect "spread jumps." Junior Varsity cheerleaders rallied fans at all JV games at home.

J.V.'s, Chieftans of Cheer

Boosting the junior varsity teams up the steep ladder to victory, the J.V. cheerleaders worked feverishly to perfect their own performances at games throughout the year. Long hours of practice, both after school and during a special cheerleaders' period on the school day, trained these six sophomore girls in the ropes of cheerleading.

Terrie Burkland, Linda Hulewicz, Gretchen Bergmann, Linda Seeley, Karen Battenfield

Under the direction of Mrs. Deborah Corder, the 16 Dancing Donettes spend many hours of work in designing effective, colorful dances. Donning navy blue, scarlet, and white uniforms, these girls add that extra zing to pep assemblies and football and basketball games throughout the year.

Mixing the old tradition of twirling cap in tune with our Fight Song and with the new addition of spinning hats or pira-lances, the Donettes danced their way through their fourth year at Coronado.

Adding the Spanish style to pep assemblies, the Dancing Donettes step out their lively routines. Continually adding to and revising their dances brought a new face to the Donette line.

Color Campus

Lighting of the Dons and the Don supporters was left to the fire of Coronado's spirit sparkers. During the 1964-65 season, these girls worked under the direction of Mrs. Deborah Corder. Outfitted in dark blue, jumper-like uniforms with white laced blouses, the varsity cheerleaders boosted the spirit, pep and steam of the Coronado student body.

Reaching the top isn't always an easy task; it takes time, work and persistence.

Ensemble: Melody Makers

Providing Dons with the sounds of music in various assemblies and concerts was the project of the hard working Choral Ensembles.

Choralairs added Yuletide spirit to the Christmas season by singing at Coronado, K Central and KOY radio station.

The ensemble made up of the top 24 members of Choralairs, worked through the year to create new and different numbers for concerts.

Choralairs, consisting of sophomore, junior and senior girls, was under the direction of Armand Jacano. The girls appeared in bright new dresses to color up their concerts.

Coronado's Dons' Band mastered the art of precision in their musical endeavors throughout the year. They proudly displayed their marching ability during pregame and half-time performances on the football field, and during the Parada del Sol. Their spring agenda included numerous concerts.

Dance Band was composed of members of Dons' Band selected by E. L. Hanson. They served the school by playing at assemblies, and open house.

Concert Orchestra added to Dons' musical interests by presenting three concerts during the 1964-1965 year.

By scholastically exercising himself, the Coronado Don is capable of the subconscious perception of knowledge. Continually drawing from his past, experiencing to the fullest his present, and anticipating his future, the Don captures the meaning of education through . . .

ACADEMICS

The key appointments are Mrs. Sherry Preston, department head and Mrs. Marian E. Lofgren, secretary for guidance. Students are called in regularly to discuss future plans.

Guidance counselors assist students with educational, vocational and social adjustment and development. College night, September 24, was designed by the guidance department to present college information to the parents of seniors.

Separate assemblies were held for all classes to help with individual class problems.

New to the guidance department is Mr. John Anderson, formerly a teacher in our science department.

Counselors Point Dons to Future

John Anderson, counselor, discusses vocational interests and enrolls with senior Tom Swanson.

Politics — '64

Fire Dons

Studying human relationships of the past (history) and of the present (government and economics) brings the constructive, critical thought necessary for future living. For government and American history classes, the 1964 Presidential election provided first-hand information on the working of political parties and campaigns. Beginning involved in the parties of their choice through serious classroom debates and work at party headquarters and polls, many interested students eagerly awaited the November election returns.

Safety Education, a graduation requirement in Arizona, offers students invaluable instruction in driver's training, first aid, and health.

Jay Clackner, social studies teacher, employs a World Relations Climate Map to show the locations of permanent bases and laws to his fifth period geography class. Slides and personal experience lectures supplement text study.

In a pre-election debate in Mr. Ingram's first period class, Ken Howell supports incumbent Lyndon Johnson. Defending the conservative position of Mr. Goldwater are Mike Arlin, John Cobb, and Jean Frankel.

Linda Schilling, Debbie Butler, and Bill Steele examine automobile parts. Intensive study of the automobile motor and how it functions plus an emphasis on road safety make up the one semester Safety Education course.

Dons Rocket Thru Cycles of Science

To stimulate students' interest in the nature which surrounds them daily and to give them a basic background and appreciation for all phases of science is the primary goal of the science department. This year live animals, telescopes, microscopes, movies, and a geiger counter were used to help create this interest.

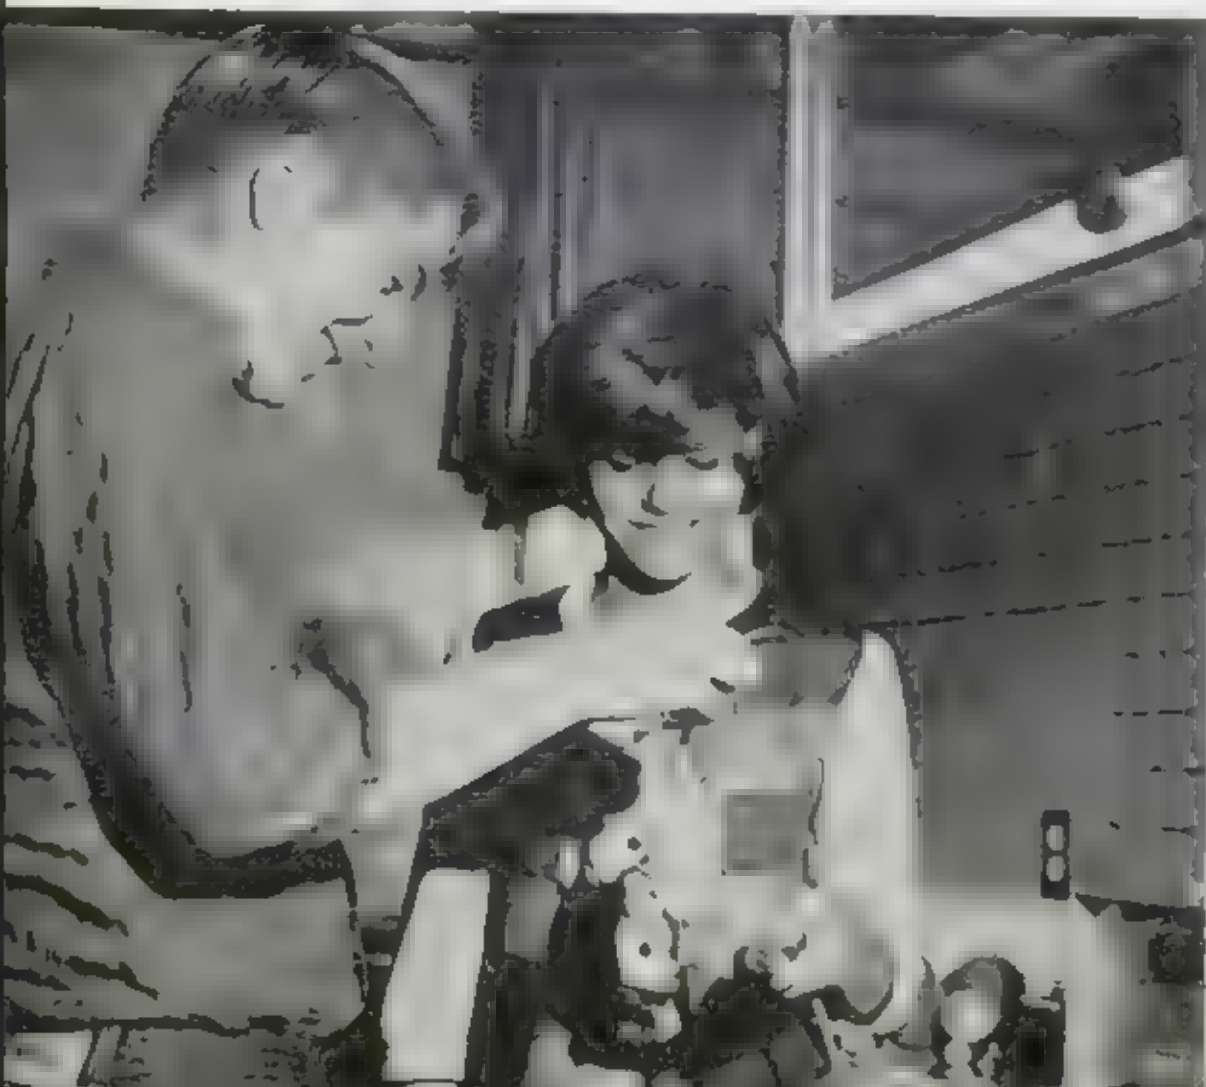

The program also helps students make decisions for future goals in the field of science.

New teachers welcomed to the department were Miss Lynn Chewing and David Grafelman.

Milton Allen and Dot Derohwer, work with a geiger counter to determine the radioactivity of the thyroid gland of a rat.

Fritz Blunt, a freshman in Mr. Bricker's accelerated sixth period biology class, uses a microscope to examine algae, which is one of the first class projects of the year.

Gale Nash, math teacher, utilizes the opaque projector to show students complicated equations. Such visual equipment also explains and illustrates basic math principles.

Trend Met — Math "Why" Explained

To meet the trend toward modern mathematics, Algebra I (Modern) has been added to the curriculum. It is a further step in coordinating the elementary and secondary programs and explains the "why" of mathematics.

The mathematics curriculum of geometry, algebra, and math has been revised to better satisfy the needs of the non-college bound student as well as those of students planning to attend college.

Welcomed as new teachers were Mr. Nolan Moore and Mr. Leo Shaughnessey.

Pondering over a geometry problem, junior John Bradshaw finds his way to the solution. John is a student in Mr. Shaughnessey's fourth period class.

English IR, a pilot program emphasizing reading, was taught for the first time this year. Mrs. Dorothy Pierce taught the freshman course.

Speech, journalism, and English have been combined into a single department. The department teaches all phases of speech, grammar, writing and literature.

New teachers were Miss Joyce Robinson, Miss Carol Milani, Miss Judith Jones, Miss Karen Schuck, and Mr. Glenn Irvin.

Modern Methods Improve English

Steve Hudson, aided by Mrs. Piercey, uses a cycle-teacher in programmed learning, while Greg Gentry takes a wheel from the file. Programmed learning, part of a freshman English course, allows students to progress at their own speed and know the right or wrong of answers.

Language Stressed for Future

Wider use of audio-visual aids has greatly improved the foreign language department. For the second year, the language lab has moved to be the modern learning technique, whereby students pick up correct pronunciation and rapidity in speaking.

Understanding of other countries and cultures through communication is the primary goal. By realizing how important language is in relation to other knowledge, students themselves make discoveries which produce a greater awareness of the world around them.

Newly instituted this year was the completely separate Spanish IV class, allowing Spanish III and Spanish IV students more individualized and directed instruction.

New teachers this year are John Paul Jones, Latin, and Miss Amaya Salcido and Miss Betty Lu Smith, Spanish.

Dancing Spanish IV students, Vic Jimenez and Georgene Samalik demonstrate the Zorongo. Jim Priest plays the guitar accompaniment.

Business Basics Build Proficiency

Larry Carity, junior, takes a timed writing test in Mr. Joyce MacDonald's first period class. Larry is a second year typing student.

All Distributive Education students are members of the DECA Club. Instructor Herbert Sherman discusses the club finances with students Hal Macfarland, Dennis Reinke, Lee Dapper, Mickey Calvert, and Ron Brown.

Eugene Gyurko, business teacher, gives Sandy Taylor directions on the posting machine. This machine is used to record payroll figures.

forming a self-composed modern dance in freshman P.E. Ellen Neeley, Vicki Tallman and Judy Brown. All are students in Mrs. Corder's fifth period class.

In physical education, students develop interest in physical fitness. "Interest is a step forward in correcting the physical incapacities of today's youth," explained department head, Mr. Theo Heap. "Physical education is an important step in the development of an individual." New teachers in the department were Mr. Harry Plant and Mrs. Marilyn Gold.

Fitness Interest Created by P.E.

Leaping high for the ball, Jerry Menaquale is surrounded by fellow teammates Don Ziemba, Andrew Smith, William Brumley, David Rawsthorne, Christian Obrock. All are P.E. students in Coach Menefee's class.

Merritt Osborn, junior, displays his experience at woodworking by using a lathe to fashion a three-tiered Lazy Susan. Merritt was a student in Mr. Anderson's first period Woodworking II class.

Industrial Arts Demand Dexterity

The industrial arts department is designed to teach students skills and knowledge not received in the classroom. Skills learned here may help students, who cannot attend college, to obtain better jobs. Industrial arts also helps students develop interest toward work and craftsmanship.

Bruce Voth, a senior in Mr. Wunderly's first period class, puts into practice his drafting skills. A combination of texts and instruments are basic to drafting classes.

Home-Ec. Base for Family Life

The valuable instruction received by girls in home-economics contributes immensely to their general education through guidance, problem solving, and decision-making in the area of family living.

Girls learn the basic fundamentals of sewing and cooking in Home Ec. I and then specialize in either cooking, dressmaking or tailoring in Home-Ec. II, III, and IV respectively.

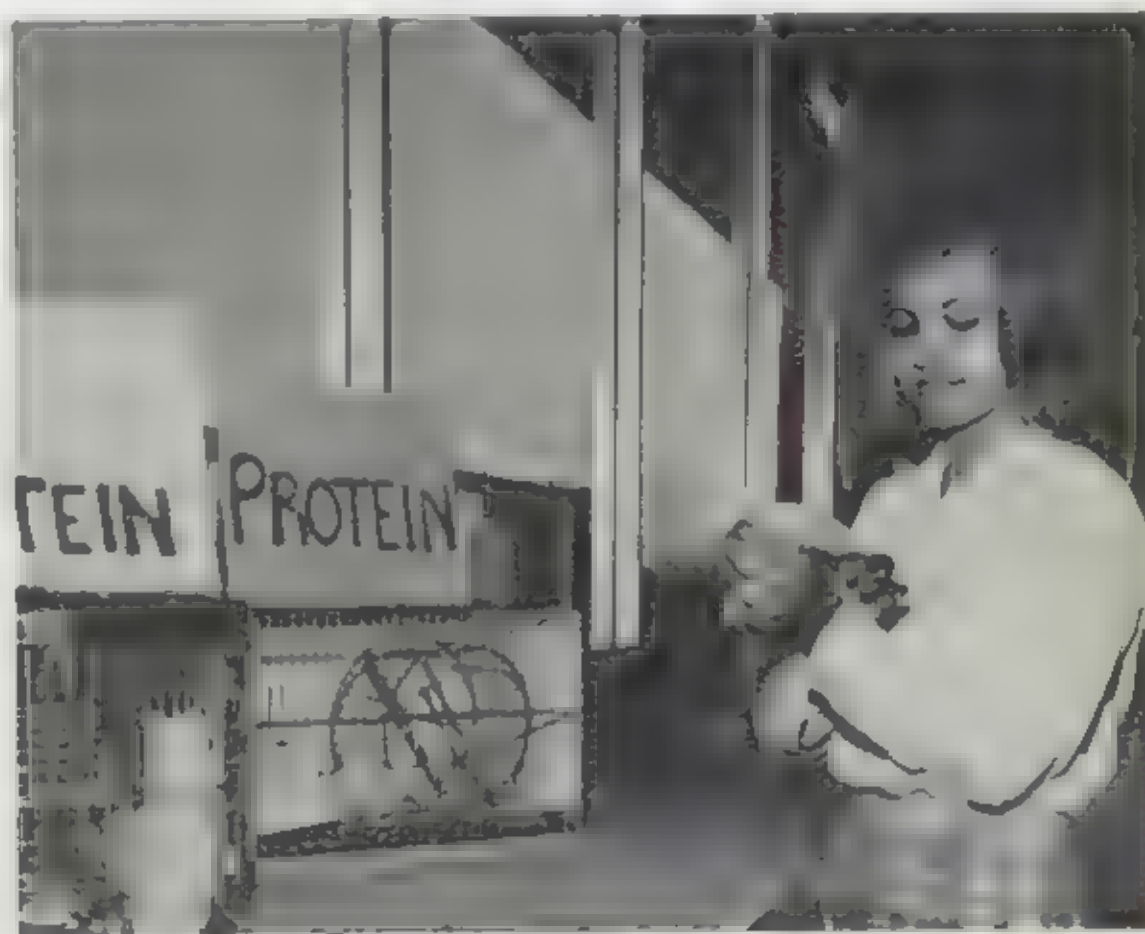

In relation to diets, students conducted experiments on rats to determine the animals' reactions to a well-balanced versus typical teenage diet. As was expected, the rats fed the protein-deficient food commonly consumed by teenagers displayed lack of energy and weight loss.

Making a surprise-molded salad out of unflavored gelatin is Debbie Morman, freshman. Debbie is a student in Mrs. Landen's first period Home Ec. I class.

Washing dishes after a cooking project is Beth Morrow, freshman in Miss John's fifth period class. Home-Ec. students learn the essentials of basic cooking, sewing, and child care.

Making a daily check on rats used in a home-experiment was Pam Logan, senior. The experiment concerned proteins and nutrients in foods.

Fine Arts

Combining a vivid imagination with fine artistic talent, senior, Susan Richards, an Art II student, puts the finishing touches on one of the figures in her mural on the customary customs around the world. The mural is in the faculty lounge.

Mr. Gath explains the finer points of art to Jerry Redding. Jerry, a sophomore and an Art II student, has done many of the fine paintings displayed on campus.

During Mr. Newcomer's theater arts class, Mike Wisted pantomimes the driver of a busload of people, who are Larry Hughes, Karen Pucci, Green Cranmer, Sharon Warner, Barbara McCombs, Merrillie Mangnall, and Sandra Hayes.

Enriches Curriculum

Students, both as individuals and as groups, develop self-expression in the areas of music, drama, art, and crafts provided by the Fine Arts department.

As the student progresses from year to year, his experience in fine arts moves from mere appreciation to actual activity in the field. Indications of such progress are "The Mad Woman of Chaillot" and "The Mikado," several orchestral and choral concerts, and various art projects, including a mural in the faculty lounge, a comprehensive mural on eating habits around the world.

Welcome additions to this department are arts and crafts teachers Mrs. Lynn Harris and William Trott. Music composition and advanced choral ensemble were offered for the first time this year.

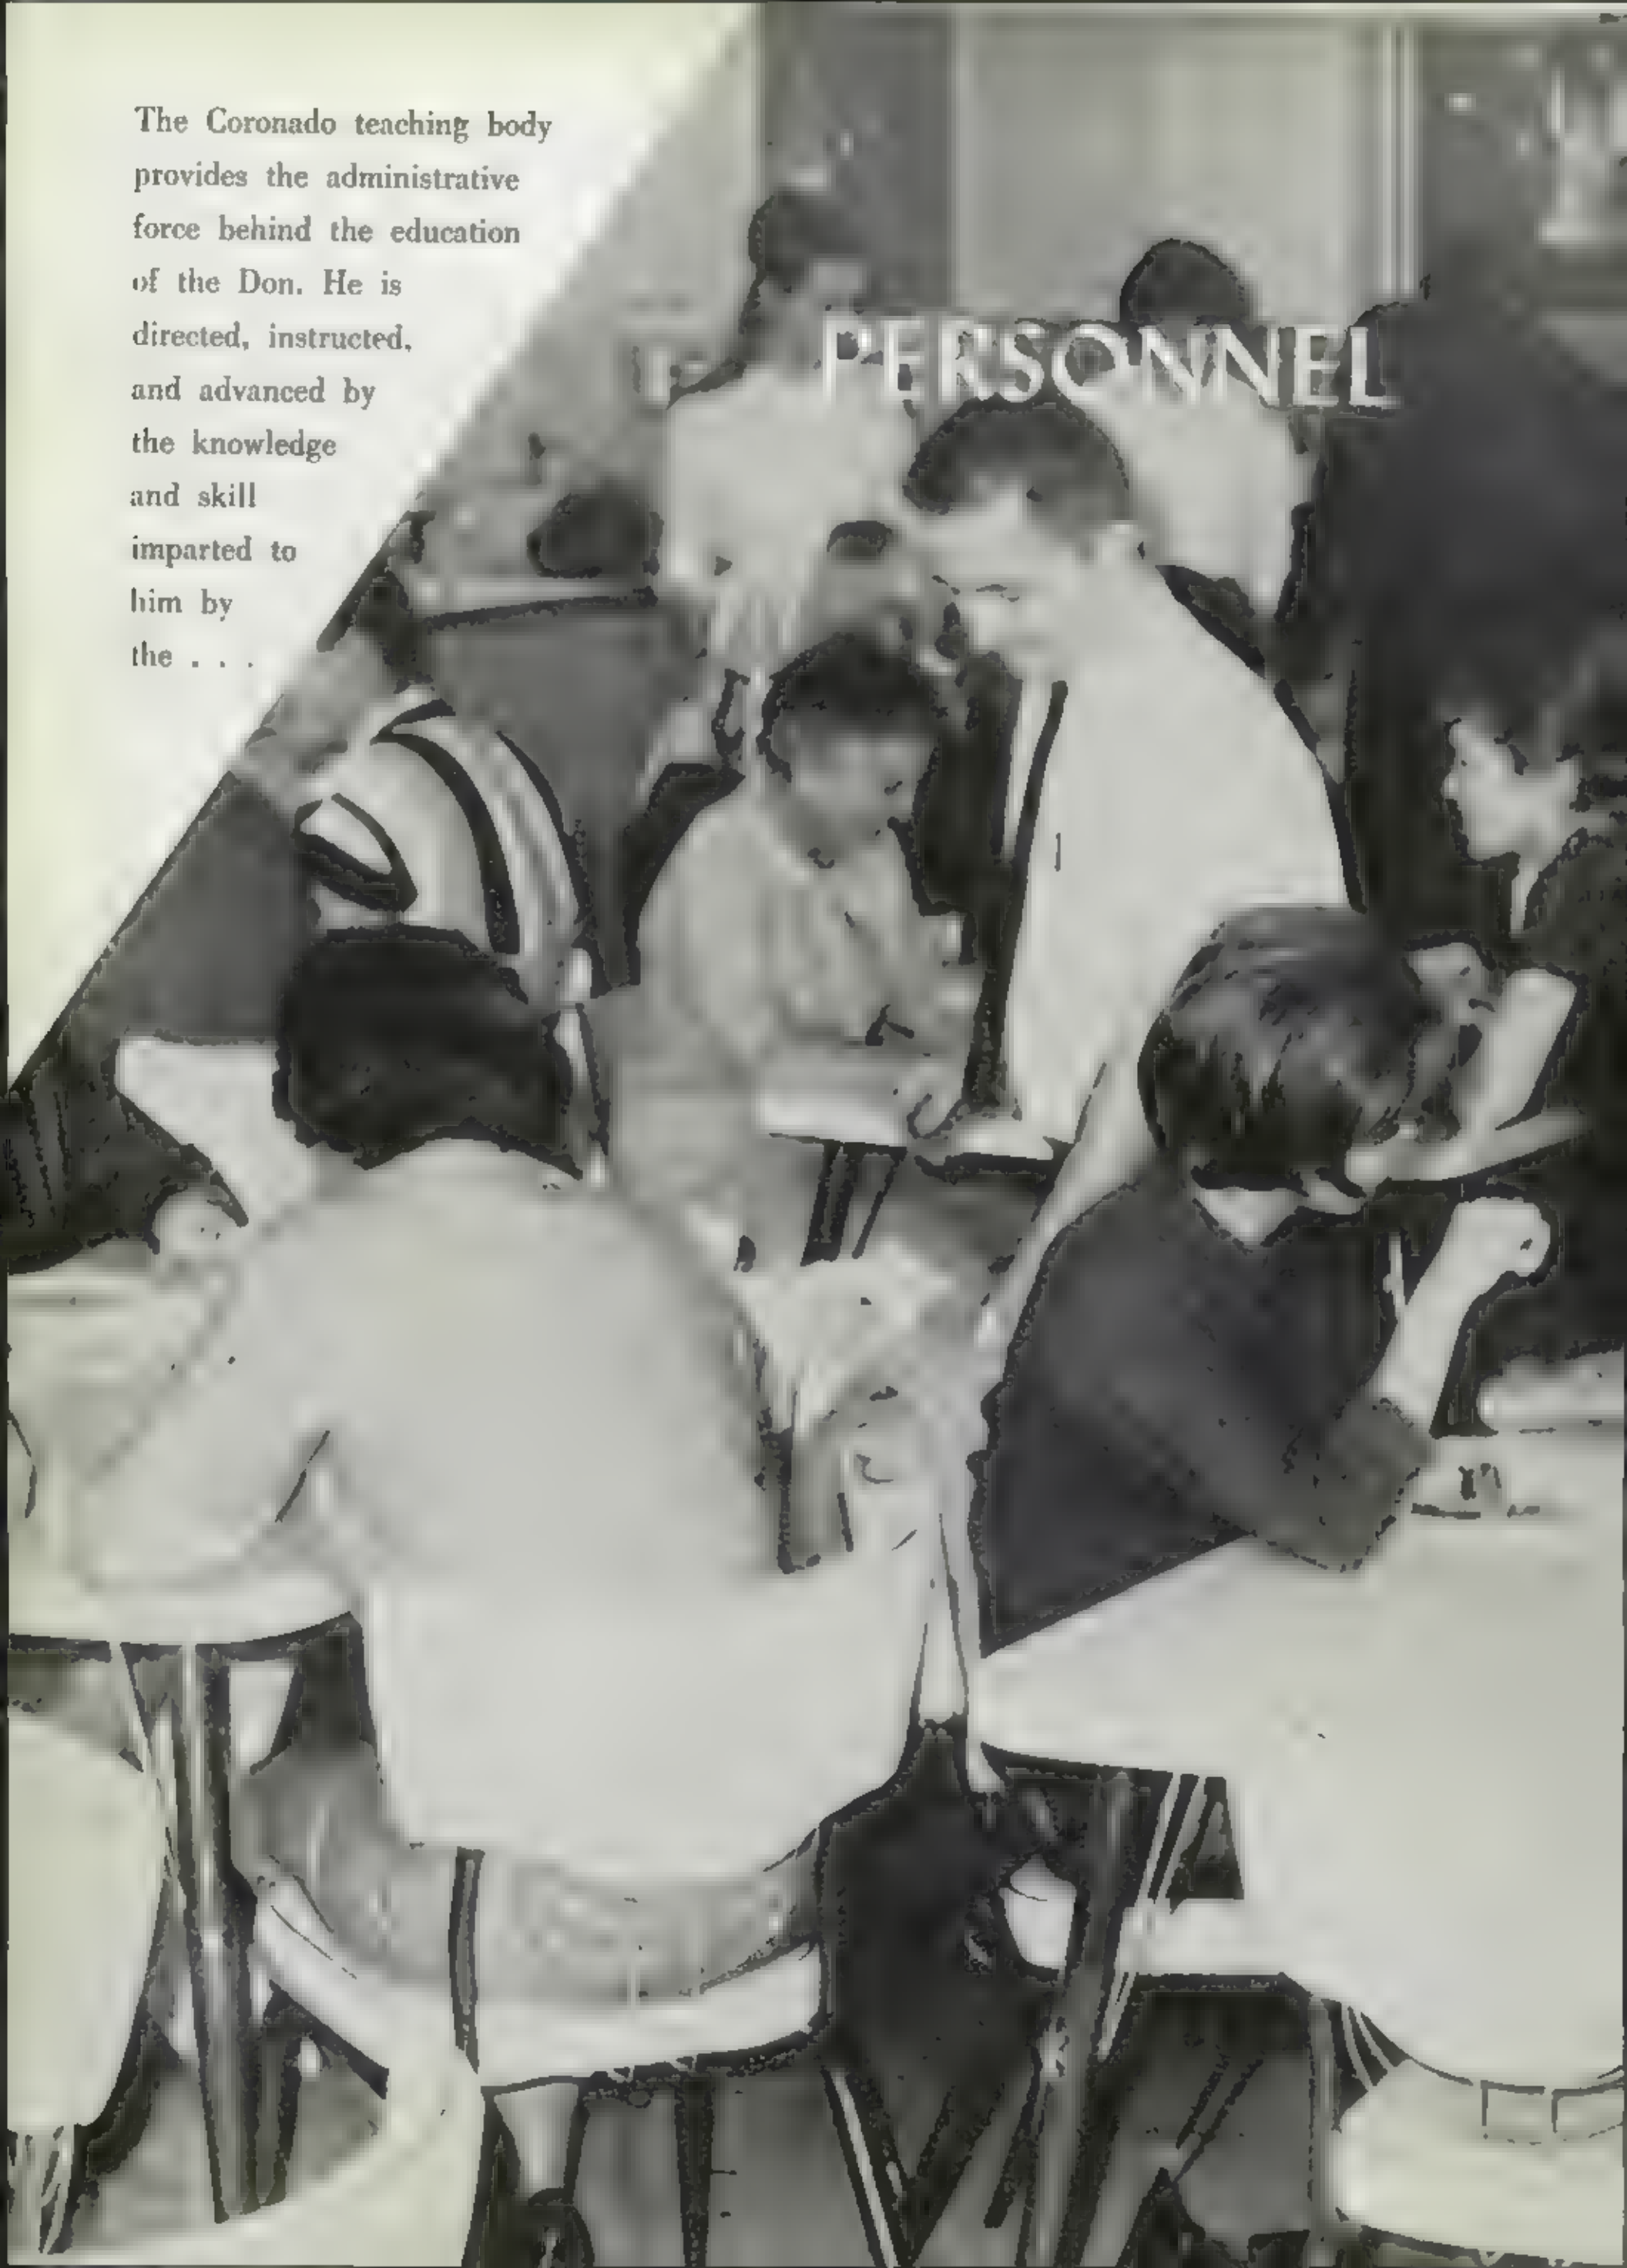

Rehearsing for "Winnie the Pooh" are Jeanette Darby, skunk; Sheila Ramage, eeyore; Judi Drex, rabbit; Mary Ann Kocarek, owl; Clayton Marlowe as Christopher Marlowe; Ann Lea, rabbit; Terry Privater as "Winnie the Pooh"; Janet Fincher, roo; and Linda Quintero, piglet. The theater arts class presented the children's play to the public on Oct. 17th.

Coronado's Choralaires, an outstanding mixed chorus, rehearse under the direction of Mr. Robert Frazier.

The Coronado teaching body provides the administrative force behind the education of the Don. He is directed, instructed, and advanced by the knowledge and skill imparted to him by the . . .

PERSONNEL

Top Brass Polish Policies

Clyde F. Kidd, Principal

Since the beginning of Coronado, Clyde F. Kidd, principal, has worked hard to make Coronado among the best schools in the state. Mr. Kidd works with the school board in hiring personnel and deciding financial matters. Along with these duties, he is also in charge of public relations.

He has been affiliated with education for 15 years, and was assistant principal at Scottsdale High before coming to Coronado.

Clyde F. Kidd, Principal, enjoys a leisurely day of camping in the Arizona mountains. Outdoor living is his major means of relaxation.

Assistant principal in charge of guidance, registration, and student scheduling, Walter L. Armistead has completed his seventh year in the teaching profession. He received his BA and MA degrees from Arizona State University.

"Strike!" calls Ump Walter Armistead who umpires commercial baseball games as a hobby. At bat is the Copines team while Ace Blueprint is in the field.

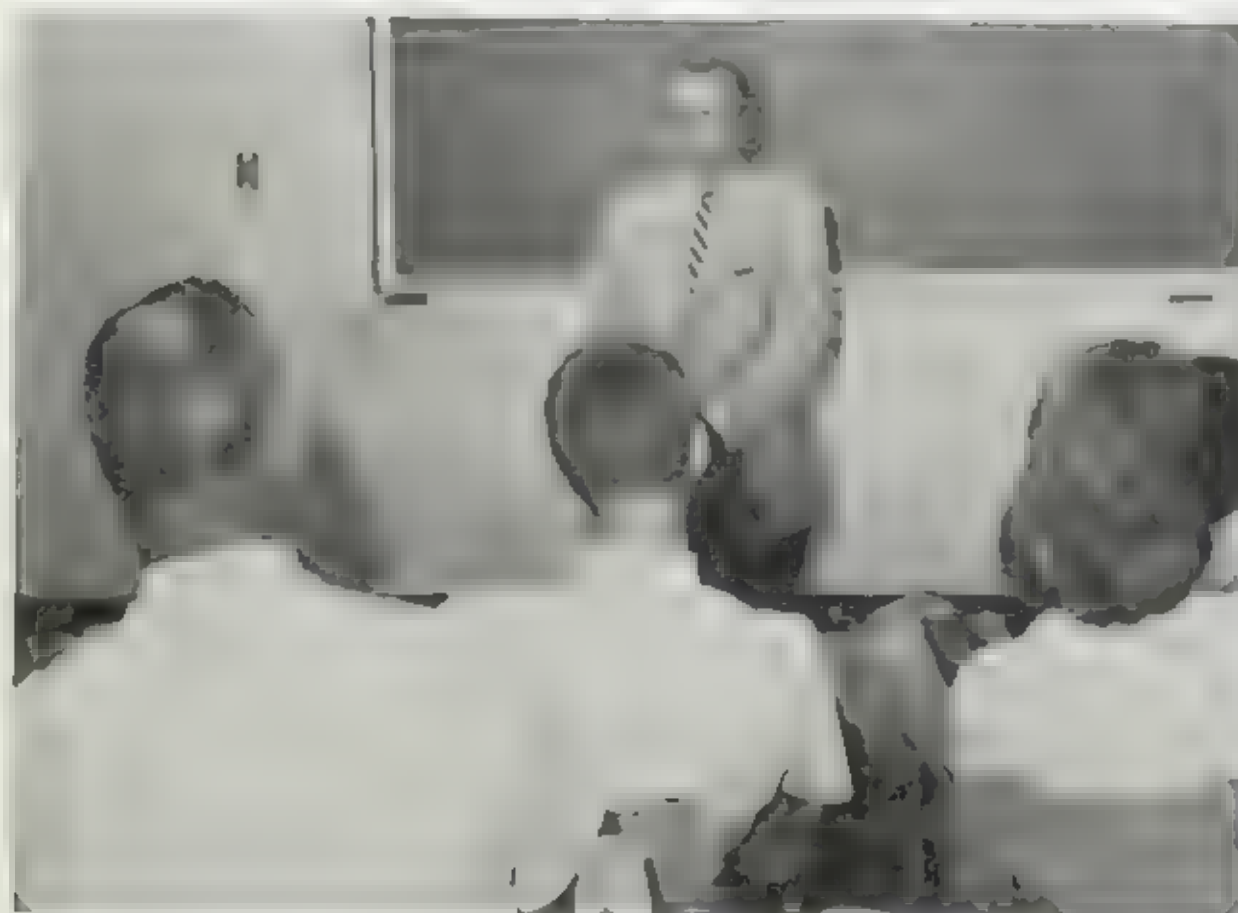

William Kelley is the elected chairman of the Arizona Education Association convention which was held on November 6 and 7. Joseph Gatti, Lynn Harris and William Troit help Mr. Kelley check the special lighting and sound effects at the ASU auditorium.

William J. Kelley, assistant principal in charge of student discipline and student activities, has been in the educational field for 16 years. He obtained his BA and MA degrees from Arizona State University.

School Board Programs Learning

Dr. Charles C. Holt, superintendent of Scottsdale public schools, talks to the faculty of Coronado at a special meeting held in room 119. Listening intently are teachers Clarence Spong, math, and Michael Dant and Miss Judith Jones, English.

Dr. Charles C. Holt, superintendent of the school board, advises the school board on constructional and financial matters concerning Scottsdale public schools. Scottsdale has been home for the Holts for three years.

The Scottsdale school board, responsible for policies governing the entire school district, approved expenditures on an almost $12,000,000 budget.

Developing the educational program and employing faculty, secretaries, maintenance men, and cafeteria workers were their most important duties.

Newly elected to the Scottsdale school board were Mrs. Nelda Jones and Lyman Davidson.

Assistant superintendent Ray Davis, in charge of Scottsdale Learning matters for eight years, has worked in the field of education for 26 years.

Functioning of Coronado Improved by

brandt, Mildred Sechrest, Helen Vano, Sandra Wirland, Nettie Seior, K Russell, Florence Olmsted, Joyce Taylor, Jazana Stone, Anita Melius, and Bonnie Motz are in charge of the preparation and serving of daily lunches

Checking Coronado's driver education cars, security officer Charles McHugh is also in charge of directing traffic and patrolling the campus.

Pausing momentarily in a busy schedule, groundsman Bill Warden, Russell Frakes, and C. R. Jolly must take the daily responsibility of keeping the trees, lawns, and shrubbery in letter-perfect condition

Service Personnel

Twenty-seven cafeteria workers, headed by Mrs. Helen Berrier, worked many hours planning and preparing well-balanced lunches for students and personnel. Service lasted two hours as Dons were passed through the lines in four different time intervals.

Grounds, rooms, and buildings were kept clean and beautiful through the diligent work of groundsmen and custodians. These men labor long after campus and city curfew hours.

Security officer Charles McHugh was general overseer of the campus and students' goings-on.

Raymond Serchiari, assistant foreman, asks James Trapani, foreman, for his advice on the ordering of supplies. Mr. Serchiari and Mr. Trapani are in charge of maintenance around the school.

Divided into classes yet joined by the oneness of Coronado, Dons activate the campus with the characteristics of their personal identities. A combination of the novel with the general, the calm with the active, and the expected with the unexpected form the Coronado Don as he is separated into . . .

CLASSES

Seniors

As the time for graduation approaches, many senior Dons looked back on the days at Cotuit. For four years the Dons had worked at varied activities, striving for their ultimate goal of graduation. Especially in their senior year, the Dons were active in all phases of school life. Sports, clubs and productions kept many busy.

Though their activities may have varied, every senior worked toward improvement in the social and academic fields, every endeavor had a purpose for these Dons.

Juniors

United, the junior class maintained a busy pace conceiving ideas and projects, carrying through profitable endeavors. The class of '66 owed much of its success in sponsoring a well received Junior-Senior Prom to the outstanding support of class members.

Dances, concessions, spirit boosters, and a donkey basketball game highlighted the Junior class' activities this year.

Advising the junior class are, back row, Leo Shaughnessy and Glenn Irvin and, front row, chairman George Vernich, Dennis Bailey, Mrs. Rosamond Rugh, Miss Judith Jones. They direct Junior-Senior Prom plans and other class-sponsored activities.

Spearheading the class of '66 are, from top, Mike Smith, president; Gil Vernetti, boy representative; Dick McCombs, vice president; Kathy Smith, treasurer; Linda Johnson, secretary; and Karen Lewis, girl representative.

Juniors Sue Regan and Janice Mudge join with other Dons in supporting varsity athletes. Spirited enthusiasm ran high at all games.

Sophomores

"Friday the 13th" brought good luck to the sophomore class. Profits from the sale of pep cards, "Jinx the Jackrabbits," boosted their accumulation of funds for use in sponsoring the Junior-Senior Prom in '66.

Striving toward unity, the class joined forces again for the "Queen of Courts" dance: the monetary returns from which are designated for the '66 Prom.

Advising the Sophomore Class this year are Mrs. Jane Fitzgerald, Mrs. Lynn Harris, L. E. Crouse, and Mark Pennington.

Freshmen

Trying to establish a firm foundation for their careers, the freshmen took their first giant step into high school

Exhibiting team spirit and great enthusiasm, they participated in a large percentage of the school activities and class functions, and they helped to show their school spirit by selling beaver pelts the week before the Coronado-Scottsdale football game. The "little Dons" had the largest percentage of students at the football game the first time attendance was taken, and came in second in the contest of gathering wood for the Homecoming bonfire

Officers who led the freshman class this year are, from top: Jon Worden, president; Chris Clark, vice president, Stephan Vance, boy representative; Ted Coopridge, treasurer; and Mary Ellen Vogel, secretary

"What goes up must come down" is proved true for members of Harvey Plant's P.E. class after skillfully forming a human pyramid. The ultimate result: tumbling chaos.

Ann Mrazek checks the efficiency of the wind machine developed specially by Mr. Frazer's theatre arts class. Such new effects as light and wind were used for "Night Is My Enemy."

The end of a year is not the end of the Don. Each finale brings the awakening of a new phase for him. Reflecting upon himself, he is projected into the next year—the next phase—causing a new dawn to break over Coronado.

Diane "Moon Goddess" C.E.C., and vitamin A with C.C.!

Time sure has gone by fast
since the first day I met you about two and a half years ago.
Remember always when I pushed the button on Rodger when we went bowling that first night. We both just sat there & laughed till we cried. Don't forget all the songs and dances we've made up especially the one dance with all the "Signals" I got around and how we both liked to listen to that part of "Don't Worry Baby".
I'm sure the Gay Scouts will never be the same since the bus tour they took when we were going on the picnic. The retreat was also a blast when we knocked on the walls all night! Also don't forget the
"G.B." dance and that Christmas party for the youth group. I'm looking forward to this summer when we are back in Ohio (we'll really knockin' dead!) The beach at Ballou should prove to be quite interesting as well as exciting (BOYS)! Although there is college ahead I hope we can still do a lot of things together in the future. You are a real good friend and lets keep it that way always. We shared a lot of times & laughs together and may we have many more. Good luck next year as a senior and may your future years be tall, dark and handsome! I don't want you to forget any of this now! You hear? I wish you much happiness & success in life.
Your friend always } Karin Venus R. Edmiston

Diene,

To one of the nicest girls I know,
If ya didn't always make fun of my driving and call me cheap (can't understand why!)
I think I might even let ya be my friend.
See ya this summer cheap, to a really good kid.

Beatta (crap)

It's been nice having you in study hall. Though I don't know you very well. Maybe next year we'll have a few classes
together.

Good luck this summer!

Hi!
Blane!
I've had a panic watching you in relations! You're a real sweet kid, Blane. Hope you will be happy always be that way and be happy and have loads of success in all that you do. Love ya always

Diene,
Good luck in the years to come and have fun
this summer. Too bad
we didn't have any class except for M' Lane!

Hi Again!

one
 ur a swell ghbor and I as I can't say indships will school. See you in the summer. And so long for

Have been a real panic knowing you
 these past few years.
 Remember the time down on Central will have a nice summer & see ya next year - maybe will get in a class -
 Love ya
 Kathleen

Diana,
 I glad I finally got to meet you. It was really funny
 how we met over the phone. I hope we have some classes
 together next year.
 Have a wonderful summer. Love,
 Becky

Knowing you are walking somewhere on campus thinking about just me. I hope we get better acquainted
 "some day or all of the night." I hope we have lots of fun over the summer. Well I finished so Bye. Love ya

Diane,

To the girl down
 the street from the Boy down the street.

I've only met you twice but I guess
 its enough to write a long column like this. You're a real slick girl and its been a pain seeing you walk down the street. It has been a nice part year
 but its starting to drag. I'm glad I finally met you because I knew I was lacking
 something in my hum drum life (only for)
 Its been a real ball

to a real "Babe" Everlasting love and affection. Russ
